SEVERE FLOODS SCOURGING CENTRAL EUROPE

GERMANY, ITALY, SWITZERLAND AND AUSTRIA SUFFER

NOW ESTIMATED THAT SCORE OF DEATHS HAVE BEEN CAUSED

UPPER RHINE AND ITS TRIBUTARIES ARE RISING STEADILY

London, Sept. 27.—(UP) — Portions of Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Italy suffered today from severe floods in which it was estimated that about a score had died so far.

The upper Rhine and its tributaries were rising steadily. At Neckar, near Jagstfale, the water rose six feet in 24 hours.

Dispatches from Zurich said eight persons had been drowned in the cantons of Oberland and Gritzons. Several railways had suspended operations and bridges had been washed out. From Munich it was reported rivers having their source in the Bavarian Alps were pouring high water into the river Paar, which was at its highest stage since 1880 and still rising.

Northern Italy was suffering considerably. The Seriana valley was under water in many places, but no casualties had been reported. The government was providing flood relief. The city of Chiavenna in Italy was menaced by the rising river Mera which had broken its dikes and destroyed several houses.

The village of Campo Dolcino was flooded and at Sondrio the water undermined the provincial palace and caused it to collapse. The foundations of the prefectural palace also were weakened. The entire city may be inundated. The Valtellina region in Lombardy was flooded. Nine persons were reported drowned when the river Adda inundated the country-side. The wreck of a relief train in the flood water caused considerable loss of life. It was not yet known how many of the 25 persons aboard had escaped.

Two children were drowned when a bridge collapsed near Grosstein. The road between Matrai and Innsbruck was submerged and impassable. Six persons, dispatches from Innsbruck said, were drowned after a cloudburst at Gsjemitz. Ramsberg in the Tiller valley was submerged and the people were living in the upper stories of houses. Two Innsbruck street car employes were drowned.

Floods in the Innsbruck region were the most severe since 1886. Two of central Europe's most important lines of communication were broken, the Paris-Vienna railway and the Munich-Italy railway. The former was cut by the destruction of a trestle near Buchs and the latter at Eisach. Austrian authorities said several months would be required to repair the damage.

In response to a request from the ruling Prince of Lichenstein, Austrian troops have been sent into the Rhine valley to rescue the population from the housetops.

BOOTLEGGERS' FEUD BLAZES IN DETROIT; 1 MAN DEAD, 1 HURT

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—(UP)—A bootleggers' feud blazed out under the red light of a Woodward avenue signal lamp last night, and left one man dead and one wounded.

The dead man was "Tommy" Shea, alias Edward Casey. He had a criminal record here and in Cleveland, Dayton and Minneapolis.

"Ted" Baldwin, 29, Chicago, alleged Detroit-Chicago rum runner, was wounded in the shoulder. His brother, Leo, 37, fled unhurt.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Not a Candidate for Presidency

Washington, Sept. 27—(UP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy in the Wilson administration, is not a Democratic presidential candidate and he sees "no possible circumstances which will make" him a candidate in 1928, according to a letter he wrote Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement league.

TRACKWALKERS FIND UNEXPLODED BOMBS ON TRACKS

Lyons, France, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Four unexploded bombs were found by trackwalkers on the railroad tracks near the Lyons station over which two special trains carrying American Legionnaires passed.

Heavy rains were believed to have prevented the bombs from exploding.

NEW CLUE ALLEGED IN MURDER CASE

POULTRY FARMER ALLEGED TO HAVE DRIVEN FROM UNDERBRUSH

OCCURRED NEAR WHERE DR. LILLIENDAHL WAS MURDERED

Hammontown, N. J., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Willis (Hell No) Beach, 52, a well-to-do poultry farmer of Vineland, today was to be brought face to face with "three prominent business men from Trenton" who have reported that Beach answers the description of a man they saw drive from the underbrush near where Dr. William Lilliendahl was murdered on September 15.

Beach, with Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, the handsome 42-year-old widow, was held in heavy bail as a material witness in the case. He owns a blue coupe and is whitehaired.

"The business men," Chief of Police William Hudson of Vineland said, "told us that at about 11:15 or 11:20 A. M. of the morning of the murder they were on the Hammontown, when they were forced to jam town, when hey were forced to jam on their brakes to stop for a blue coupe which was emerging from the lane where Dr. Lilliendahl was killed.

"The man who was driving the car was short and stocky, of florid complexion and had white hair. The three men who told me this story said they would know him again if they saw him. The last they saw of him, they said, he was driving at a tremendous rate toward Hammontown."

Hudson flatly refused to reveal the identity of the three motorists.

Unless something develops from the story of the blue coupe, the police will be no nearer solution of the mysterious crime than they were on the afternoon of September 15 when Mrs. Lilliendahl staggered into Indian Mill road, three miles from here, and led passersby into a lonely woods lane to show them the body of her husband with three bullet wounds in his head, slouched in the seat he had occupied beside her in their automobile.

"There may be an arrest in 48 hours, or maybe more, or maybe less," Louis Repetto, prosecutor of Atlantic county said. "Or again, there may be no arrest for a long time."

Mrs. Lilliendahl first told a story of how two negroes had held up her and her husband, forced her to drive into the woods and then shot her husband as they robbed them both. Every item of money and jewelry she said has been taken from her or her husband later was found scattered near the scene of the crime.

Now Mrs. Lilliendahl says she believes her husband was murdered in revenge by drug addicts.

SEEK TO RE-ESTABLISH OLD GAME REFUGE

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Hearing on a petition to re-establish the Monongalia game refuge will be conducted by J. F. Gould, state game and fish commissioner, at New London, Friday. The refuge was established 10 years ago, and now must be re-established or abandoned.

ST. PAUL CITY R. R. CO. OPERATED AT A LOSS

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—The St. Paul City Railroad Co. operated at a loss of $25,716.38 in August, it was revealed today in its monthly income report. The loss was $6,000 greater than in August, 1926.

One of Earliest Cold Waves in Recent Years Sweeping From Northwest Toward Chicago

DEMOCRATS OF THE SOUTH IN REGARD TO SMITH

POLITICAL SURVEY CONDUCTED IN AREA BY UNITED PRESS

CENTER ON NO CANDIDATE, BUT SMOULDER WITH OPPOSITION TO NEW YORKER

By PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 27. — Delegations uninstructed or pledged to minor favorite sons probably will be sent by the south to the next democratic national convention to oppose the candidacy of Gov. Al Smith of New York unless some dry Moses rises up to rally these wandering votes, a political survey conducted by United Press bureaus indicate.

Democrats of the vast region from the Atlantic ocean to Nevada are centering upon no candidate but are smouldering with opposition to Gov. Smith, reports say.

Republicans of this fundamentally democratic expanse are sticking by President Coolidge for re-election until they can ascertain which way the presidential winds will blow. They always like to be with the winning candidate to protect their patronage appointments to postmasterships and federal positions in those sixteen states.

If it becomes apparent later that Mr. Coolidge will not be drafted, then Secretary of Commerce Hoover may fall heir to this big block of southern delegates, the reports indicate.

Hoover has won such popularity in Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana by his handlings of Mississippi valley flood relief that there is considerable talk about what will be done in these nominally democratic states if Smith and Hoover should be the candidates of their respective parties in the 1928 election. Some threats have been made that the states might go to Hoover.

It is generally felt, however, that the south will remain in the democratic column in 1928 no matter who is nominated. Senator Fletcher, democrat, Florida, for one believes that while his own state democrats are sternly opposed to Smith they would vote for the New York governor if he were the nominee.

Some few Smith clubs have been organized, one in Milledgeville, Ga., birthplace of Smith's old political opponent, William G. McAdoo, and another in Charlotte, N. C., but the only southern city of size reporting strong Smith sentiment is New Orleans. It is doubtful, however, if Smith can obtain the Louisiana state delegation because outside of New Orleans there is much anti-Smith sentiment.

McAdoo's stated withdrawal from the race caused no great surprise and made no change in the situation. While this region gave him almost full support in the last democratic convention, its leaders long ago gave up hope of McAdoo's nomination and began talking about pledging their delegations for favorite sons.

North Carolina may be pledged to its Governor McLean or Josephus Daniels; Virginia to Senator Carter Glass; Arkansas to Senator Joseph T. Robinson; Tennessee to Governor Dan Moody. Two Alabama senators Heflin and Black, have indicated they might line up their state for Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio. The remainder probably would be uninstructed.

The situation throughout the south is about the same as Daniels summarized it in North Carolina in a statement to the United Press. "There has been no crystallization of opinion," he said. "The attitude of the people can be summed up in the words 'watchful waiting'."

Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, recently went through the south and was received by the Georgia legislature. But he won no great ovations. Reed is a wet and the south is fundamentally dry. That similarly is the basis of opposition to Smith, although widespread objection also has been made publicly on the ground that Smith is a Catholic.

What the south wants is a protestant dry progressive democrat to succeed to McAdoo. But its eye is set on no one right now.

MUSSOLINI AN ADVOCATE OF LARGE FAMILIES

Forli, Italy, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini who, like Roosevelt, is an advocate of large families, is a father a fourth time but he doesn't intend to stop there.

The new born will open the second series the Fascist premier said yesterday before his wife gave birth to a boy, who, it is understood, will be named Guido.

When he learned the child was about to be born Mussolini came by automobile from Rome to the bedside of his wife at the Villa Carpena, near here, the country residence of the Mussolinis.

Prof. Cesare Michaeli, Rome's foremost gynecologist, attended.

The new born was the third boy of four children.

Mussolini is a stern opponent of birth control. He personally has directed that severe penalties for the advocacy of birth control be included in the new penal code.

POLICE THINK LAD OF 12 SLEW HIS STEPFATHER

THAT MOTHER CONFESSED SHOOTING MERELY TO SHIELD HER SON

CONFLICTING CONFESSIONS BERKELEY MOTHER AND THE BOY

Berkeley, Calif., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Jerome Connell, 12, killed his stepfather as he said he did and his mother confessed the shooting merely to shield her son, police were convinced today.

Charles Van Alderwelt was found fatally wounded in his home Monday morning and the conflicting confessions were made by both his wife and her son. They agreed, however, that Van Alderwelt and his wife had quarrelled and that he was attacking her when the shooting occured. And later the mother changed her account of the incident to coincide with Jeromes.

The story of Jerome was told so convincingly that police were inclined to believe it.

"I was in bed when I heard my father and mother fighting," he said. "Then I heard her scream. My 22 rifle was in the bed room and I put a bullet in it and went down stairs.

"I saw Mr. Van Alderwelt choking mother and shot him, then went back to my room.

"Later I heard him moaning and I went downstairs and walked out on the porch and waited until the police came."

The little bullet from the boy's single shot rifle struck Van Alderwelt in the lung near his heart. He lived only a few hours. Neighbors said they had heard the couple quarreling.

MUSKRAT RUNS ABOUT MAIN STREET OF BEAVERDAM

Beaverdam, Wis., Sept. 27.—(UP)—A large muskrat which wandered about the main street of Beaverdam caused panic among women shoppers and one woman was severely bitten before the animal was driven away.

SNOW FALLS IN COLORADO AND THE DAKOTAS

HEAVY FROSTS IN SECTIONS OF MICHIGAN, NEBRASKA, KANSAS, ETC.

TEMPERATURES WENT DOWN TO 11 DEGREES ABOVE AT MINOT, N. D.

(By United Press)

No great change in temperature is expected over the state tonight, according to the weather bureau. Cloudy weather will prevail over most of the area, it was predicted.

The low temperature in St. Paul during the night was 40 degrees above zero. At Bismarck, Yellowstone Park and Minnedosa and Winnipeg, Canada, the mercury went to 30 degrees or lower.

Chicago, Sept. 27—(UP)—One of the earliest cold waves in recent years was sweeping from the northwest toward Chicago today, but forecasters predicted the cold would be much more moderate in this section today and tomorrow than it was farther north yesterday.

Snow fell in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota. In sections of upper Michigan, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Wisconsin heavy frosts were experienced.

The lowest temperature recorded was at Minot, N. D., where the thermometer went to 11 degrees above zero. At Rapid City, where President Coolidge stayed this summer, the minimum temperature was 28 degrees and there was four inches of snow.

Airmail planes were delayed several hours in Wyoming and Utah by the storm.

The weather bureau reported the minimum temperature here would be around 45 degrees and that the cold would be followed at the end of the week by moderate weather.

Crop reporters said the early frost did little damage, since the corn crop is almost entirely matured. Yield in a few fields was lessened by the cold, however.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS AT TOPEKA, KANSAS

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Four new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the state board of health here.

The total number of cases now under observation in the state is 23.

Of the 104 cases afflicted with the disease since January 1, according to Dr. Earle G. Brown, secretary of the state board of health, death has taken 25.

Three of the four new cases reported were in eastern Kansas.

WOMEN TEACHERS ORDERED TO WEAR ONE COLOR SMOCKS

Hazel Park, Mich., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Women teachers in Hazel Park schools must wear smocks of one color as yet unselected, which reach at least ten inches from the ground.

The order was made by the board of education, a male member of which said he believed the class room was no place for short skirts.

KINGSFORD SMITH PLANNING FLIGHT TO HONOLULU

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Capt. Kingsford Smith, Australian, is still planning a flight to Honolulu and from there to Australia in his trimotored Fokker plane, it was announced. The plane was to be taken to San Francisco for the start of the venture soon.

LEVINE LEAVES VENICE FOR ROME TODAY

Venice, Sept. 27—(UP)—Charles A. Levine, first trans-Atlantic airplane passenger, left today for Rome in his Bellanca monoplane Columbia.

Levine came here with Captain Walter G. Hinchcliffe, his English pilot, to witness yesterday's Schneider cup races.

CONFESSES TO SLAYING AUTO LOAN FINANCIER

ART HANSON, ACCORDING TO POLICE, SAYS HE KILLED JAMES BARRETT

AFTER BARRETT HAD KILLED MRS. BARRETT AND HER SISTER-IN-LAW

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP) — Art Hanson, according to police, today confessed he murdered James Barrett, automobile loan financier, after Barrett had killed Mrs. Barrett and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Kooser, Aug. 11.

The alleged confession in the form of a lengthy statement was made, Hanson said, "to clear my conscience." He was returned from Chicago to St. Paul late yesterday.

Hanson, police said, also gave information linking Barrett with several of the other recent underworld liquor feud slayings here.

Hanson said he was with Barrett the day of the murder of Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Kooser, in Barrett's home in a fashionable section of the city. He went there with Barrett, and was told to wait outside while Barrett entered the place.

He heard shots, he said, and Barrett ran out to the car, and they sped away. They drove to downtown St. Paul, where Barrett gave Hanson the revolver from which the shots had been fired. They then drove into the country.

A quarrel followed, Hanson demanding the reason Barrett thrust the murder weapon onto him. In a fit of temper, both men drew their weapons. Hanson declared he fired in self-defense, and saved his own life at the expense of Barrett's only by being quicker on the "draw."

Hanson said he threw Barrett's body out of the car and set fire to it, then hurried to St. Paul.

Hanson linked Barrett with seven murders other than those of Mrs. Barrett and her sister.

CIGARET STUMP BELIEVED CAUSE OF HOTEL FIRE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—(UP)—More than forty persons narrowly escaped death last night when fire partially destroyed the Grand hotel here. Quick work of the ten fire companies which responded the call in the downtown district enabled the guests trapped above the blaze to escape.

Police said the fire probably was started by a cigarette stump tossed into a pile of rubbish.

OVER 10,000 NOW REGISTERED AT U.

Minneapolis, Sept. 27.—(UP)—While complete figures on fall registration at the University of Minnesota will not be available until next week, it was indicated today they would exceed the 10,000 mark. Nearly 3,000 freshmen, a record number for the university, already are registered.

FARMERS ON CUTOVER LANDS GAIN A HALF MILLION FROM CLOVER

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Farmers on cutover land in Koochiching and Lake of the Woods counties will get $500,000 for Alsike clover this year, according to N. J. Holmberg, agricultural commissioner.

The yield in the region averaged 8 bushels to the acre, whereas it is but four in most parts of the state. The seed is bringing 24 cents a pound.

EFFICIENCY OF NAVY WAS CRITICIZED

COMMENTS OF REAR ADMIRAL STIRRED GOVERNMENT CIRCLES

COOLIDGE THINKS NAVY AND ARMY RECEIVING SUFFICIENT APPROPRIATIONS

By HERBERT LITTLE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 27.—President Coolidge took issue today with Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, whose criticism of the efficiency of the navy has stirred government circles here.

Mr. Coolidge believes, it was announced at the White House, that both the navy and army are receiving sufficient appropriations to be efficiently administered, that officials at present in charge are doing well in their allotments of expenditures, and that both branches of the war service must be kept highly officered as insurance for protection.

Mr. Coolidge does not believe that any set of men could spend $700,000,000 a year (as is spent on the army and navy), without encountering some criticism as to how some part of it could have been better disbursed.

Magruder's articles criticising the navy have been read by the president and as he does not consider himself an expert on naval affairs he does not desire to pass any criticism on the value of the rear admiral's statements. He feels that some of the admiral's suggestions may be helpful and worthy of investigation. He is desirous of having a first class military establishment and wants to bring expenditures for that purpose to a reasonable amount.

The country is well able to meet the present expenditures, Mr. Coolidge thinks, without feeling undue burden. It is his main desire not so much to reduce expenditures as to see that appropriated money is wisely expended to get the best possible army and navy.

Mr. Coolidge does not think that the navy is over-officered as Magruder charged. He thinks there ought to be a large supply of officers on hand. Enlisted men can always be obtained quickly but it is hard to get good officers.

The president does not think it makes much difference where the officers are stationed. Magruder charged that too many of them occupied swivel chairs in Washington. The president feels that if there isn't anything for officers to do elsewhere it is all right for them to be in Washington where their expenditures are less than in the field.

Mr. Coolidge, however, assumes that some of Magruder's suggestions are worthy of careful consideration and will be so received by the navy department. Secretary of Navy Wilbur has ordered Magruder to submit any plans he may have for improving the navy.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—No plan for reorganization of the navy department was proposed by Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commandant of the navy yard here, in a recently published article dealing with naval affairs, Magruder said today. He was asked to comment on a request from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur that he "immediately submit details of any plan you may have now."

"I did not propose any reorganization plan," Magruder said. "I merely stated my personal views, and my article was an effort to have carried out the navy policy approved by former Secretary of the Navy Denby several years ago. Denby's report contained a number of well thought out ideas that it was my purpose to focus attention on.

"I do not, of course, carry around in my pocket any definite detailed plan for navy reorganization. If I were asked, however, and given sufficient time, I think I might, with a corps of expert assistants, within a few months formulate some kind of

"I was in bed when I heard my father and mother fighting," he said. "Then I heard her scream. My 22 rifle was in the bed room and I put a bullet in it and went down stairs.

"I saw Mr. Van Alderwelt choking mother and shot him, then went back to my room.

"Later I heard him moaning and I went downstairs and walked out on the porch and waited until the police came."

The little bullet from the boy's single shot rifle struck Van Alderwelt in the lung near his heart. He lived only a few hours. Neighbors said they had heard the couple quarreling.

MUSKRAT RUNS ABOUT MAIN STREET OF BEAVERDAM

Beaverdam, Wis., Sept. 27.—(UP)—A large muskrat which wandered about the main street of Beaverdam caused panic among women shoppers and one woman was severely bitten before the animal was driven away.

SNOW FALLS IN COLORADO AND THE DAKOTAS

HEAVY FROSTS IN SECTIONS OF MICHIGAN, NEBRASKA, KANSAS, ETC.

TEMPERATURES WENT DOWN TO 11 DEGREES ABOVE AT MINOT, N. D.

(By United Press)

No great change in temperature is expected over the state tonight, according to the weather bureau. Cloudy weather will prevail over most of the area, it was predicted.

The low temperature in St. Paul during the night was 40 degrees above zero. At Bismarck, Yellowstone Park and Minnedosa and Winnipeg, Canada, the mercury went to 30 degrees or lower.

Chicago, Sept. 27—(UP)—One of the earliest cold waves in recent years was sweeping from the northwest toward Chicago today, but forecasters predicted the cold would be much more moderate in this section today and tomorrow than it was farther north yesterday.

Snow fell in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota. In sections of upper Michigan, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Wisconsin heavy frosts were experienced.

The lowest temperature recorded was at Minot, N. D., where the thermometer went to 11 degrees above zero. At Rapid City, where President Coolidge stayed this summer, the minimum temperature was 28 degrees and there was four inches of snow.

Airmail planes were delayed several hours in Wyoming and Utah by the storm.

The weather bureau reported the minimum temperature here would be around 45 degrees and that the cold would be followed at the end of the week by moderate weather.

Crop reporters said the early frost did little damage, since the corn crop is almost entirely matured. Yield in a few fields was lessened by the cold, however.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS AT TOPEKA, KANSAS

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Four new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the state board of health here.

The total number of cases now under observation in the state is 23.

Of the 104 cases afflicted with the disease since January 1, according to Dr. Earle G. Brown, secretary of the state board of health, death has taken 25.

Three of the four new cases reported were in eastern Kansas.

WOMEN TEACHERS ORDERED TO WEAR ONE COLOR SMOCKS

Hazel Park, Mich., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Women teachers in Hazel Park schools must wear smocks of one color as yet unselected, which reach at least ten inches from the ground.

The order was made by the board of education, a male member of which said he believed the class room was no place for short skirts.

KINGSFORD SMITH PLANNING FLIGHT TO HONOLULU

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 27.—(UP)—Capt. Kingsford Smith, Australian, is still planning a flight to Honolulu and from there to Australia in his trimotored Fokker plane, it was announced. The plane was to be taken to San Francisco for the start of the venture soon.

LEVINE LEAVES VENICE FOR ROME TODAY

Levine came here with Captain Walter G. Hinchcliffe, his English pilot, to witness yesterday's Schneider cup races.

CONFESSES TO SLAYING AUTO LOAN FINANCIER

ART HANSON, ACCORDING TO POLICE, SAYS HE KILLED JAMES BARRETT

AFTER BARRETT HAD KILLED MRS. BARRETT AND HER SISTER-IN-LAW

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP) — Art Hanson, according to police, today confessed he murdered James Barrett, automobile loan financier, after Barrett had killed Mrs. Barrett and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Kooser, Aug. 11.

The alleged confession in the form of a lengthy statement was made, Hanson said, "to clear my conscience." He was returned from Chicago to St. Paul late yesterday.

Hanson, police said, also gave information linking Barrett with several of the other recent underworld liquor feud slayings here.

Hanson said he was with Barrett the day of the murder of Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Kooser, in Barrett's home in a fashionable section of the city. He went there with Barrett, and was told to wait outside while Barrett entered the place.

He heard shots, he said, and Barrett ran out to the car, and they sped away. They drove to downtown St. Paul, where Barrett gave Hanson the revolver from which the shots had been fired. They then drove into the country.

A quarrel followed, Hanson demanding the reason Barrett thrust the murder weapon onto him. In a fit of temper, both men drew their weapons. Hanson declared he fired in self-defense, and saved his own life at the expense of Barrett's only by being quicker on the "draw."

Hanson said he threw Barrett's body out of the car and set fire to it, then hurried to St. Paul.

Hanson linked Barrett with seven murders other than those of Mrs. Barrett and her sister.

CIGARET STUMP BELIEVED CAUSE OF HOTEL FIRE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27.—(UP)—More than forty persons narrowly escaped death last night when fire partially destroyed the Grand hotel here. Quick work of the ten fire companies which responded the call in the downtown district enabled the guests trapped above the blaze to escape.

Police said the fire probably was started by a cigarette stump tossed into a pile of rubbish.

OVER 10,000 NOW REGISTERED AT U.

Minneapolis, Sept. 27.—(UP)—While complete figures on fall registration at the University of Minnesota will not be available until next week, it was indicated today they would exceed the 10,000 mark. Nearly 3,000 freshmen, a record number for the university, already are registered.

FARMERS ON CUTOVER LANDS GAIN A HALF MILLION FROM CLOVER

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Farmers on cutover land in Koochiching and Lake of the Woods counties will get $500,000 for Alsike clover this year, according to N. J. Holmberg, agricultural commissioner.

The yield in the region averaged 8 bushels to the acre, whereas it is but four in most parts of the state. The seed is bringing 24 cents a pound.

EFFICIENCY OF NAVY WAS CRITICIZED

COMMENTS OF REAR ADMIRAL STIRRED GOVERNMENT CIRCLES

COOLIDGE THINKS NAVY AND ARMY RECEIVING SUFFICIENT APPROPRIATIONS

By HERBERT LITTLE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 27.—President Coolidge took issue today with Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, whose criticism of the efficiency of the navy has stirred government circles here.

Mr. Coolidge believes, it was announced at the White House, that both the navy and army are receiving sufficient appropriations to be efficiently administered, that officials at present in charge are doing well in their allotments of expenditures, and that both branches of the war service must be kept highly officered as insurance for protection.

Mr. Coolidge does not believe that any set of men could spend $700,000,000 a year (as is spent on the army and navy), without encountering some criticism as to how some part of it could have been better disbursed.

Magruder's articles criticising the navy have been read by the president and as he does not consider himself an expert on naval affairs he does not desire to pass any criticism on the value of the rear admiral's statements. He feels that some of the admiral's suggestions may be helpful and worthy of investigation. He is desirous of having a first class military establishment and wants to bring expenditures for that purpose to a reasonable amount.

The country is well able to meet the present expenditures, Mr. Coolidge thinks, without feeling undue burden. It is his main desire not so much to reduce expenditures as to see that appropriated money is wisely expended to get the best possible army and navy.

Mr. Coolidge does not think that the navy is over-officered as Magruder charged. He thinks there ought to be a large supply of officers on hand. Enlisted men can always be obtained quickly but it is hard to get good officers.

The president does not think it makes much difference where the officers are stationed. Magruder charged that too many of them occupied swivel chairs in Washington. The president feels that if there isn't anything for officers to do elsewhere it is all right for them to be in Washington where their expenditures are less than in the field.

Mr. Coolidge, however, assumes that some of Magruder's suggestions are worthy of careful consideration and will be so received by the navy department. Secretary of Navy Wilbur has ordered Magruder to submit any plans he may have for improving the navy.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—No plan for reorganization of the navy department was proposed by Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commandant of the navy yard here, in a recently published article dealing with naval affairs, Magruder said today. He was asked to comment on a request from Secretary of the Navy Wilbur that he "immediately submit details of any plan you may have now."

"I did not propose any reorganization plan," Magruder said. "I merely stated my personal views, and my article was an effort to have carried out the navy policy approved by former Secretary of the Navy Denby several years ago. Denby's report contained a number of well thought out ideas that it was my purpose to focus attention on.

"I do not, of course, carry around in my pocket any definite detailed plan for navy reorganization. If I were asked, however, and given sufficient time, I think I might, with a corps of expert assistants, within a few months formulate some kind of

THIRD ANNUAL HIKE

Held Sunday by Always Faithful and Willing Workers Sunday School Classes

Sunday afternoon was the occasion of the third annual "hike" of the Always Faithful class of the Swedish Bethany Sunday school. This year they had as their guests the Willing Workers class of the school, who have just commenced their lessons in religious instruction leading to their confirmation next spring.

The early part of the day did not look very promising for the "hikers" but after attending their regular Sunday school classes and taking part in the morning worship, the weather had cleared somewhat and after enjoying a picnic dinner, prepared by themselves in the church basement, it was warm enough so they started out to explore that part of God's great outdoors lying north and west of the city between the Mississippi river and Gilbert lake. They followed the banks of the river and the Riverside Drive for about a mile north of the Laurel street bridge, then crossed the hills to the shores of Little Gilbert lake and along the shores to Holmes' boat house where they stopped long enough to play a few games.

Their steps then lead them over the hills and valleys to the gentle slopes of Ahren's hill where they enjoyed a lurch and short rest before going to the top of the hill where more games were played before going down the opposite side to the banks of the river and back again to the shores of big Gilbert and into the city by way of the bridge near the Paper Mill, tired and hungry.

They returned to the church in time to take part in the Christian Endeavor meeting before having lunch again. The following members of the Always Faithful class took part: Wallace Anderson, Gladys Dahlquist, Virginia Erickson, Hazel Fallquist, Astrid Lindberg, Edith Peterson, Lillian Sorsven, Evelyn Swanson, Leslie Swanson and the teacher who acted as chaperon. The guests were Donald Anderson, Kenneth Anderson, Bertil Erickson, Ruth Fallquist and Julia Peterson.

THIRD ANNUAL HIKE

Held Sunday by Always Faithful and Willing Workers Sunday School Classes

Sunday afternoon was the occasion of the third annual "hike" of the Always Faithful class of the Swedish Bethany Sunday school. This year they had as their guests the Willing Workers class of the school, who have just commenced their lessons in religious instruction leading to their confirmation next spring.

The early part of the day did not look very promising for the "hikers" but after attending their regular Sunday school classes and taking part in the morning worship, the weather had cleared somewhat and after enjoying a picnic dinner, prepared by themselves in the church basement, it was warm enough so they started out to explore that part of God's great outdoors lying north and west of the city between the Mississippi river and Gilbert lake. They followed the banks of the river and the Riverside Drive for about a mile north of the Laurel street bridge, then crossed the hills to the shores of Little Gilbert lake and along the shores to Holmes' boat house where they stopped long enough to play a few games.

Their steps then lead them over the hills and valleys to the gentle slopes of Ahren's hill where they enjoyed a lunch and short rest before going to the top of the hill where more games were played before going down the opposite side to the banks of the river and back again to the shores of big Gilbert and into the city by way of the bridge near the Paper Mill, tired and hungry.

They returned to the church in time to take part in the Christian Endeavor meeting before having lunch again. The following members of the Always Faithful class took part: Wallace Anderson, Gladys Dahlquist, Virginia Erickson, Hazel Fallquist, Astrid Lindberg, Edith Peterson, Lillian Sorsven, Evelyn Swanson, Leslie Swanson and the teacher who acted as chaperon. The guests were Donald Anderson, Kenneth Anderson, Bertil Erickson, Ruth Fallquist and Julia Peterson.

DEDICATE SOUTH LONG LAKE CHURCH

Services at Beautiful New Presbyterian Church to be Held October 9

BUILDING IS OF GOTHIC

Community Fellowship Evening, October 10; Attracts Interest Here

Dedicatory services of their new church home will be conducted Sunday afternoon, October 9, at the South Long Lake Presbyterian church by members of the congregation. The service will start at 3 o'clock.

The new church is of modernized Gothic architecture with square tower in front. It will be equipped with a fine modern basement with furnace room, fuel room, kitchen with sink, pump, stoves, dishes, etc. The basement will also contain a fine large room that may be used for a social room, dining room and Sabbath school, auditorium and ladies aid parlors. Upstairs is as pretty a little auditorium as will be found anywhere with woodwork and pews in light finish. Accoustics are said to be perfect. In addition are the following: spacious choir loft, session room, choir room, coat room with a large reception room and lobby. The building is set in a beautiful green meadow fronted by an original forest and presents a location rarely surpassed in beauty.

The drawings for the building were made by A. G. Lamont, architect for the division of buildings and property of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions. The contractor and superintendent of construction was J. E. Jackson, Brainerd. The women of the congregation have had installed a Holland furnace.

The building committee who had charge of the construction follows: Carl Maust, chairman; Mrs. P. O. Peterson, secretary; Delbert Busby, treasurer; Albert House and Mrs. George Morcomb. The committee was assisted by the whole congregation in bringing it to completion and beautifying the grounds. The pastor is Rev. Alexander G. Patterson.

Much time and effort is being put in on the arrangements for the dedication which will include a community fellowship evening on Monday evening, October 10. Different community organizations will be represented and all the neighboring churches have been invited.

This church is one of the leading factors in this enterprising community and will enlist the interest in its dedication not only of that community but also Brainerd and of other communities.

The old church was struck by lightning and almost completely demolished this summer.

PARK THEATRE TO START NEW RUN

Will Open Doors to Public Seven Evenings a Week With Two Matinees

TO START SUNDAY

Pictures Already Booked Include "The Eagle," "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Mike"

The Park theatre will open Sunday, October 2, running seven nights a week with matinees on Saturday and Sunday, W. R. Hiller, local manager of F. & R. theatres, announced today.

Vaudeville will continue on Saturday, matinee and night as usual.

Special low prices will prevail. Just the former big picture hits, and favorite stars will be rebooked and shown at the Park. The management has had many requests to bring back these "old favorites," as many missed seeing them when first shown here. Doubtless many will take the opportunity of seeing them again especially at these bargain prices.

Two shows will be given each evening at 7 and 9 o'clock with matinees on Saturday and Sunday only. Complete change of program each Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Some of the pictures already booked are: Colleen Moore in "Sally"; Rudolph Valentino in "The Eagle"; Mary Pickford in "Little Lord Fauntleroy"; "The Lost World"; Norma Talmadge in "The Lady"; Doug Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zorro"; Milton Sills in "The Sea Hawk"; Richard Dix in "The Lucky Devil"; Sally O'Neil in "Mike"; "Quo Vadis" and many other noted pictures.

Luckies First for Flavor and Goodness

Then note the verdict of 11,105* doctors

WHAT is the quality that Mario Chamlee, Florence Easton, Marie Rappold, Reinald Werrenrath, Giuseppe DeLuca, Fritzi Scheff, William Hodge, and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

CHOKED WITH ITS OWN RICHES

ACCORDING to a special staff writer of the United Press, the Russian Soviet is almost choked with its own riches. It has bushels of the crown jewels of the czars and no market for the precious jewels. They are conservatively valued at not less than $250,000,000, but they might as well be worth nothing, so far as they help the Soviet State.

The officials in the Commissariat of Finance are trying to forget they possess such things as diamonds and emeralds and pearls, while they sit up nights figuring out ways to get the cash they need to keep the country going.

Instead of being useful, this fatal collection of unsaleable and sparkling merchandise eats up money. It is so precious that it has to be housed in a special place. The building is heavily guarded. Getting in to see the jewels is a week's work, with every question imaginable asked. Just opening the various doors and locking them again takes plenty of time.

There are guards day and night in the chamber and guards to watch the guards and inspectors to watch the guards who watch the guards. And the financial leaders of the government pinch every penny before they let it go and pinch every taxpayer to get the last possible penny out of him and go home to dream about what they could do if only somebody would want to buy a jewel. Meanwhile the jewels sit like beautiful women in the sun, sparkling and gleaming and smiling.

We find the same thing in real life. Men with wonderful talent and no ability to use it. Men, idealists with great ideas, and not enough practical sense to make anything constructive. Men with jewels of thought and no market for their wares.

Great poets of the old days who starved to death waiting for recognition. It all goes to show the value of a market. The farmer is in the same boat. If he is overloaded with produce and has no market for his wares, he sits as hopelessly as the Russians with their bushels of crown jewels.

THE OBSTINATE GEORGE III

THE Kansas City Star mentions that human destinies sometimes are molded by dull men as well as brilliant men. Had George III of England not been a stupid man history would read much differently today. Had he been able and far-seeing, the outbreak of the American Revolution might have been definitely postponed.

The break between the mother country and the colonies was inevitable, but the history of this nation would have been changed beyond prediction if the war of liberation had been waged a generation later. Moreover, the winning of freedom in America had much to do with rousing the French to rise against the Bourbon rule, which led to the rise of Napoleon.

George III became king in 1760 when he was 22 years old. He was popular and as a young man was more attractive than he was in later years. His obstinacy had been developed to the point it was to reach later. He wanted his own way, but he was quick to abandon a course when he saw that he could not make headway in it.

By 1770 he had worked himself into a position of real power and then was seized with the obsession of taxing the American colonies. He did not understand the fury that his measures aroused across the sea. He was incapable of understanding it. He was just an obstinate, angry man who was being balked in wrong doing. His understanding of the real depth of the matter is evidenced by his firm belief that the colonies were blufling, that they would become meek enough as soon as they realized that they were offending a good man who would not hesitate to punish them to make them behave.

ACTION AGAINST FARM THIEVES

WITH the advent of good roads and fine trucks, all providing quick and easy locomotion, there has sprung up a lot of farm thieves who have made it a practice to loot convenient farms of thousands of dollars of produce, livestock, poultry and personal property. Creameries have also been entered and loads of butter taken.

The farmers of Steele county have rebelled at such treatment and have formed a Steele County Protective Association to deal with offenders. The organization is ready, it is reported, at a minute's notice to send armed posses in search of thieves. It has raised funds with which to trace robbers, effect their capture and what is all important, to prosecute them should they escape from the county or state following any crime.

INDIANS HARVEST WILD RICE

THE Indians have harvested the wild rice on Lake Onamia and are now willing to smoke the pipe of peace with the owners of the big rice mowing machine that is still stranded on the lake shore.

The wild rice crop does cut quite a figure in the Mille Lacs lake country. The merchants in Onamia state that they ship it to California and every other section of the country, and frequently in amounts of a hundred pounds or more.—Princeton Union.

WE note with some satisfaction the amelioration of an abrupt curve on Trunk Highway No. 19 about three miles from Brainerd. The place has been the scene of many accidents in spite of the fact that warning signs have been posted by the highway department and a special marker has been placed at the turn. The wider curve has been graded to position and probably early next year will be given a tarvia coat to conform with the structure of the rest of the highway there.

WE have heard of hog callers winning medals and other recognition, but now comes a new proposition. Halvor Robberstad of Warroad was presented with a silver plated cowbell at the recent county fair at Baudette because of his ability in calling cows. Thus hog calling and cow calling are getting to be recognized callings.

THE woman's bureau of the United States department of labor makes the startling announcement that wage-earning women are rapidly increasing and that masculine wage-earners are slowly decreasing.

"A GRINDSTONE that had not grit in it, how long would it take to sharpen an ax?" queries H. W. Beecher. "And affairs that had not grit in them, how long would they take to make a man?"

ITALIAN PAPERS GENEROUS IN THEIR PRAISE

LAUD ENGLISH VICTORY IN THE SCHNEIDER CUP RACE AT LIDO

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Sept. 27.—Italian newspapers were generous today in their praise of the English victory in the Schneider cup race at Lido.

"We present our arms to the winners admiringly and ungrudgingly," said the newspaper Giornal D'Italia. "Their victory probably was due to longer training of their pilots. Anyhow, we raise our arm in Roman fashion, saluting the English success and shout loudly, 'Long Live England' and 'Au revoir until the next meet'."

The Tribuna said the Englishmen's victory was to be expected because of their hard training and efficient preparation.

"The Italian people salute Webster (the winner) and tell Italian constructors to prepare for the next meet," the Tribuna added.

Flight Lieut. S. N. Webster, who won the race by flying his supermarine S-5 seaplane at an average of 285.1 miles an hour, told the United Press how it felt to be flying at more than 4 3-4 miles a minute.

"The sensations were similar to going at a high speed in any other form of locomotion," he said.

"The great roar of the motor was not heard. In rounding the curves there was a rush of blood to the head but it adjusted itself on the straightaway.

"Visibility naturally was very difficult, though it was sufficient to pilot a plane safely."

Lieut. Webster then discussed the practical value of such a race as the event which he had won.

"Racing machines will always be the pioneers in developing the speed of aviation," he said. "By attaining high speed, racing machines of today become the commercial planes of tomorrow, as proved by the past cup races."

CHOKED WITH ITS OWN RICHES

ACCORDING to a special staff writer of the United Press, the Russian Soviet is almost choked with its own riches. It has bushels of the crown jewels of the czars and no market for the precious jewels. They are conservatively valued at not less than $250,000,000, but they might as well be worth nothing, so far as they help the Soviet State.

The officials in the Commissariat of Finance are trying to forget they possess such things as diamonds and emeralds and pearls, while they sit up nights figuring out ways to get the cash they need to keep the country going.

Instead of being useful, this fatal collection of unsaleable and sparkling merchandise eats up money. It is so precious that it has to be housed in a special place. The building is heavily guarded. Getting in to see the jewels is a week's work, with every question imaginable asked. Just opening the various doors and locking them again takes plenty of time.

There are guards day and night in the chamber and guards to watch the guards and inspectors to watch the guards who watch the guards. And the financial leaders of the government pinch every penny before they let it go and pinch every taxpayer to get the last possible penny out of him and go home to dream about what they could do if only somebody would want to buy a jewel. Meanwhile the jewels sit like beautiful women in the sun, sparkling and gleaming and smiling.

We find the same thing in real life. Men with wonderful talent and no ability to use it. Men, idealists with great ideas, and not enough practical sense to make anything constructive. Men with jewels of thought and no market for their wares.

Great poets of the old days who starved to death waiting for recognition. It all goes to show the value of a market. The farmer is in the same boat. If he is overloaded with produce and has no market for his wares, he sits as hopelessly as the Russians with their bushels of crown jewels.

THE OBSTINATE GEORGE III

THE Kansas City Star mentions that human destinies sometimes are molded by dull men as well as brilliant men. Had George III of England not been a stupid man history would read much differently today. Had he been able and far-seeing, the outbreak of the American Revolution might have been definitely postponed.

The break between the mother country and the colonies was inevitable, but the history of this nation would have been changed beyond prediction if the war of liberation had been waged a generation later. Moreover, the winning of freedom in America had much to do with rousing the French to rise against the Bourbon rule, which led to the rise of Napoleon.

George III became king in 1760 when he was 22 years old. He was popular and as a young man was more attractive than he was in later years. His obstinacy had been developed to the point it was to reach later. He wanted his own way, but he was quick to abandon a course when he saw that he could not make headway in it.

By 1770 he had worked himself into a position of real power and then was seized with the obsession of taxing the American colonies. He did not understand the fury that his measures aroused across the sea. He was incapable of understanding it. He was just an obstinate, angry man who was being balked in wrong doing. His understanding of the real depth of the matter is evidenced by his firm belief that the colonies were bluffing, that they would become meek enough as soon as they realized that they were offending a good man who would not hesitate to punish them to make them behave.

ACTION AGAINST FARM THIEVES

WITH the advent of good roads and fine trucks, all providing quick and easy locomotion, there has sprung up a lot of farm thieves who have made it a practice to loot convenient farms of thousands of dollars of produce, livestock, poultry and personal property. Creameries have also been entered and loads of butter taken.

The farmers of Steele county have rebelled at such treatment and have formed a Steele County Protective Association to deal with offenders. The organization is ready, it is reported, at a minute's notice to send armed posses in search of thieves. It has raised funds with which to trace robbers, effect their capture and what is all important, to prosecute them should they escape from the county or state following any crime.

INDIANS HARVEST WILD RICE

THE Indians have harvested the wild rice on Lake Onamia and are now willing to smoke the pipe of peace with the owners of the big rice mowing machine that is still stranded on the lake shore.

The wild rice crop does cut quite a figure in the Mille Lacs lake country. The merchants in Onamia state that they ship it to California and every other section of the country, and frequently in amounts of a hundred pounds or more.—Princeton Union.

WE note with some satisfaction the amelioration of an abrupt curve on Trunk Highway No. 19 about three miles from Brainerd. The place has been the scene of many accidents in spite of the fact that warning signs have been posted by the highway department and a special marker has been placed at the turn. The wider curve has been graded to position and probably early next year will be given a tarvia coat to conform with the structure of the rest of the highway there.

WE have heard of hog callers winning medals and other recognition, but now comes a new proposition. Halvor Robberstad of Warroad was presented with a silver plated cowbell at the recent county fair at Baudette because of his ability in calling cows. Thus hog calling and cow calling are getting to be recognized callings.

ITALIAN PAPERS GENEROUS IN THEIR PRAISE

LAUD ENGLISH VICTORY IN THE SCHNEIDER CUP RACE AT LIDO

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Sept. 27.—Italian newspapers were generous today in their praise of the English victory in the Schneider cup race at Lido.

"We present our arms to the winners admiringly and ungrudgingly," said the newspaper Giornal D'Italia. "Their victory probably was due to longer training of their pilots. Anyhow, we raise our arm in Roman fashion, saluting the English success and shout loudly, 'Long Live England' and 'Au revoir until the next meet'."

The Tribuna said the Englishmen's victory was to be expected because of their hard training and efficient preparation.

"The Italian people salute Webster (the winner) and tell Italian constructors to prepare for the next meet," the Tribuna added.

Flight Lieut. S. N. Webster, who won the race by flying his supermarine S-5 seaplane at an average of 285.1 miles an hour, told the United Press how it felt to be flying at more than 4 3-4 miles a minute.

MINNESOTA IS TO WIN CONFERENCE TITLE

COMPOSITE OPINION OF NINE WRITERS

BEST FOOTBALL WRITERS OF MIDDLE WEST TAKE A POLL ON QUESTION

WIDE VARIETY OF BELIEF ON ALL EXCEPT MINNESOTA AND OHIO

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The University of Minnesota will win the western conference football championship, according to composite opinion of nine of the best football writers in the middle west.

The United Press asked representative surmises on the way the Big Ten race will end, and the ballots showed this result:

First place, Minnesota.
Second, Ohio State.
Third, Northwestern.
Fourth, Michigan.
Fifth, Illinois.
Sixth, Purdue.
Seventh, Wisconsin.
Eighth, Chicago.
Ninth, Iowa.
Tenth, Indiana.

The expert vote was taken from men in the western, central and eastern portions of the middle west, and wide variety of beliefs were expressed, save in the particular that Minnesota and Ohio State no where received votes below second place.

The writers invited to ballot were John McGovern, of the Minneapolis Journal, one of the greatest players who ever wore a University of Minnesota uniform; Oliver Kuechle of Milwaukee Journal; Stuart Bell of the Cleveland Press; Eddie Ash of the Indianapolis Times; Kenneth Fry of the Chicago Evening Post; Roundy Coughlin of the Wisconsin State Journal, Madison, Wis.; Bill Fox of the Indianapolis News; Ed Shave of the St. Paul Daily News, and Eddie Jacquin of the Champaigne, Ill., News Gazette.

The preponderance of Minnesota votes is well explained by Kuechle who asks:

"I don't see who is going to stop Minnesota. Indiana won't. Iowa won't. Wisconsin won't. Michigan might in the last game of the season. But Yost's fellows, I figure, will be pretty well worked the week before by the Navy, while Minnesota has comparatively easy sailing with Drake."

Ohio, with Marek and Freddie Grimm back seems assured of winning almost every game save perhaps the Michigan or Norhwestern contests. Northwestern ranks third with such stars as Tiny Lewis, Capt. Vic Gustafson and Justin Dart.

Kuechle rates the Michigan-Ohio game the doubtful one on Michigan's and Ohio's program. That battle, he says, will show Michigan at its best against the Buckeyes—"one of those hotsy-totsy inspired games."

Eddie Jacquin at Champaign feels that Illinois should lose to Ohio and beat both Northwestern and Michigan, but several others feel the Zuppke team will be lucky to win one of those two contests.

Ed Shave of St. Paul is inclined to think Illinois may show more than is on the surface. Purdue is given a fine chance to beat both Wisconsin and Indiana, mostly on the strengh of such players as Guncotton Wilcox, Ramby and Koransky, and is picked to win easily from Indiana, and lose to Northwestern.

Wisconsin, with Coach Glenn Tnistlethwaite at the helm, is not expected to show so very much style his year. Both Wisconsin writers, Kuechle and Roundy Coughlin, whose predictions are usually reliable, pick the Badgers for the second division.

Iowa, minus Cowboy Kutsch, and Chicago, with no such players as the John Thomas or "Five Yards" McCarthy of the past, are not expected to show a particularly flashing attack this season, despite the fact that both schools have excellent coaches.

Indiana received seven votes for tenth place. Eddie Ash of the Times in Indianapolis placed the Hoosiers seventh, and Bill Fox of the News in the same town put them sixth.

Most of the writers in the districts with stronger teams were inclined to "play down" local prospects. McGovern confessed that "Doc" Spears of the Minnesota team would never forgive him if he chose the Gophers to lead the pack, so he put Michigan and Ohio along with the Spears-coached team. Coughlin picked Ohio to tie Minnesota. Otherwise those two teams reigned "one two" throughout the poll.

LITTLE CHANCE TO CHANGE EDICT IN THE BIG FIGHT

ILLINOIS BOXING COMMISSION CERTAINLY WOULD BACK OFFICIALS' JUDGMENT

DEMPSEY NOW PROTESTING ONLY UNDER ADVICE OF LEO FLYNN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 27.—Jack Dempsey's chances of having the Tunney decision changed by the Illinois boxing commission are about one to one hundred because the commission hardly would dare to go against the precedent that the judgment of its officials must be backed.

There have been several occasions where the New York commission has been asked to reverse the decision of officials and refused to do it. There was a loud yell to have the decision of the referee reversed after he had ruled that Jack Dempsey had not fouled Jack Sharkey and after another referee had insisted that Dempsey did not violate the rules in his fight with Firpo.

In this connection Dempsey hasn't much room to complain. Of course the tossing away of a million dollar asset is not to be passed over lightly. Dempsey has had plenty of breaks—and in fact nearly all of the breaks—in every one of his big fights until he met Tunney the first time and then the breaks didn't go against him.

He had all the breaks in the Willard fight. He had the breaks in his fight with Tom Gibbons when he was permitted to get away with most anything. He battered Bill Brennan down with rabibt punches and he violated several rules in the Firpo fight.

In fairness to Dempsey, however, it must be said that he is protesting now only under advice. Leo Flynn is leading the advance on the Illinois commission and he is doing it partly to cover up the outsmarting he got from Bill Gibson and Jimmy Bronson of the Tunney camp. The Illinois rules provide that the count shall be started as soon as a man is knocked down and that it shall be picked up by the referee as soon as the man scoring the knockdown is in a neutral corner.

In a conference with the officials Gibson and Bronson suggested that the count should not be started until the man scoring the knockdown had reached the farthest neutral corner. Flynn agreed to it and Dempsey lost his big chance. Dempsey, following the instinct of a natural fighter, tried to get in a position where he would be behind Tunney when he was getting up. He went to a neutral corner but he didn't go to the farthest corner.

Flynn's charges that there were manipulations, gambling operations and referee fixing are the usual chatter that follows every big fight. Flynn is credited with being one of the smartest handlers in the game and if there had been any fixing and he didn't hear of it in time enough to get in an early protest his reputation for smartness is not justified.

Tunney, as far as the general public is concerned, will remain the heavyweight champion, regardless of the action of the Illinois commission. That part of the public which bet on the fight would raise an awful howl to have their money switched but it is generally understood in taking and placing bets that the money goes on the word of the referee and the judges if judges are being used.

EACH TEAM SCHEDULED TO PLAY 4 GAMES

GIANTS HOPELESSLY OUT OF THE RACE, DEFEATED YESTERDAY BY PHILADELPHIA

BY ALL THE LAWS OF AVERAGE, BOTH TEAMS SHOULD LOSE TODAY

(By United Press)

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals, the former holding a two-game lead, today entered a contest for the pennant with each team scheduled to play only four games before the end of the season. The Giants were almost hopelessly out of the race because Philadelphia defeated them yesterday.

By all the laws of averages, both teams should lose today. The Pirates have won three of a four-game series with the Cubs, two of them by a one-run margin, and the Cards faced another game with the dangerous Cincinnati Reds. The standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	92	58	.613
St. Louis	90	60	.600
New York	88	61	.591

The Pirates were aided in defeating the Cubs by rain which stopped the game at the end of the sixth inning with Pittsburgh in the lead, 1 to 0. Miljus held the Cubs to four hits and old Art Nehf's slow curves fooled the Pirates in the pinches and kept them from scoring. The single Pittsburgh run was made possible when Nehf tried to stop a hot drive down the center of the infield and only succeeded in knocking the ball so far out of reach that it wasn't recovered until Paul Waner reached first.

Another pitchers' battle took place between Jess Haines of the Cards and Adolfo Luque of the Reds. The game went 12 innings with the score tied 1-1. Then when two were out in the 13th, Luque allowed a double and three singles which with an error, gave St. Louis two runs. The score was 3 to 1.

Downfall of the Giants was occasioned by Ehrich who allowed only seven hits while the Phillie batters got 17 off Faulkner, Grimes and Plitt. The score: Philadelphia, 9; New York, 2.

After a fairly close game in which the Red Sox made a triple play but lost 4 to 2, the Boston team stopped playing baseball, made ten errors and lost the second game to Washington, 11 to 2. The triple play was Flagstead to Regan to Hartley. Of the ten errors, four were charged against Moore, catcher, and two against Rogell, third baseman.

Limiting the Indians to three hits Billings, a former college pitcher, won for the Tigers, 8 to 3. Myatt of Cleveland hit a home run, preventing a shutout.

PENNANT HOPES OF CARDINALS DASHED

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 27. — The pennant hopes of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals received a setback today when it was announced that Bob O'Farrell, the Cardinals' manager and catcher, will not be able to be in the line-up for the remainder of the season.

The announcement was made by physicians following an X-ray examination of O'Farrell's right thumb which was injured yesterday when he was hit by a foul tip.

The photograph disclosed that a small piece of bone was chipped from the thumb.

BUFFALO READY FOR LITTLE WORLD SERIES

Toledo, O., Sept. 27.—(UP)—The Buffalo team, champion of the International league, was here today primed for the opening of the little world series with the Mud Hens, champions of the American association, tomorrow afternoon.

"I have a cracking good ball team," Bill Clymer, manager of the eastern team, said.

"Dick Meade and Casey Stengel have pulled together the best outfit in the American association and I anticipate a hard fought series with the Hens."

With the exception of Walter Huntzinger, pitcher, and Everett Scott shortstop, the Hens are in splendid condition.

3 YOUTHS ARRESTED PACK MANY GUNS

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Three youths, arrested late yesterday at Brunswick, Minn., were questioned by authorities here today in connection with the finding of several guns in an automobile they were using.

An automobile stolen from J. E. Terry, Parkers Prairie, was found in possession of the boys. In it at the time was found a large quantity of ammunition, five shotguns and three revolvers.

The artillery was stolen from cabins in northern Minnesota hunting resorts, police declared.

TUNNEY SAYS HE WILL CONSIDER A FIGHT OFFER

IF DEMPSEY WISHES TO BATTLE AGAIN, HE WILL CONSIDER MATTER

BELIEVES HIS TWO VICTORIES TO HAVE BEEN CONVINCING

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 27.—"If the public wishes Jack Dempsey to fight me again, I will consider it," Gene Tunney said today on his arrival here from Cleveland.

"But," the world's heavyweight champion added, "I consider my two victories in Philadelphia and Chicago convincing in themselves."

Tunney arrived shortly after 10 A. M. from Cleveland, where he had stopped en route east from Chicago.

A crowd of 2,500 or more at the Grand Central station gave the champion an ovation.

A squad of special police escorted him to his car and he was driven to the Hotel Breslin.

Questioned about the seventh round in Chicago, when Dempsey knocked him down and he was given the 'long count,' Tunney said:

"I admit I was slightly dazed, but it was good common sense to take the full count.

"As far as the so-called 'long count' was concerned," Tunney added, "it was understood before the fight started that the man who scored a knockdown must retire to a neutral corner before the count began."

Tunney said he expected to remain in New York a few days. Tomorrow or Wednesday he will give a luncheon to a few friends. Then he plans to start for the Maine woods for a vacation.

"I have no immediate plans for the future," he said when asked about the possibility of vaudeville or other activities. "I want to rest before I undertake any business."

Eddie Jacquin at Champaign feels that Illinois should lose to Ohio and beat both Northwestern and Michigan, but several others feel the Zuppke team will be lucky to win one of those two contests.

Ed Shave of St. Paul is inclined to think Illinois may show more than is on the surface. Purdue is given a fine chance to beat both Wisconsin and Indiana, mostly on the strengh of such players as Guncotton Wilcox, Ramby and Koransky, and is picked to win easily from Indiana, and lose to Northwestern.

Wisconsin, with Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite at the helm, is not expected to show so very much style his year. Both Wisconsin writers, Kuechle and Roundy Coughlin, whose predictions are usually reliable, pick the Badgers for the second division.

Iowa, minus Cowboy Kutsch, and Chicago, with no such players as the John Thomas or "Five Yards" McCarthy of the past, are not expected to show a particularly flashing attack this season, despite the fact that both schools have excellent coaches.

Indiana received seven votes for tenth place. Eddie Ash of the Times in Indianapolis placed the Hoosiers seventh, and Bill Fox of the News in the same town put them sixth.

Most of the writers in the districts with stronger teams were inclined to "play down" local prospects. McGovern confessed that 'Doc" Spears of the Minnesota team would never forgive him if he chose the Gophers to lead the pack, so he put Michigan and Ohio along with the Spears-coached team. Coughlin picked Ohio to tie Minnesota. Otherwise those two teams reigned "one two" throughout the poll.

PIRATES AND CARDINALS IN FINAL RACE

BAN JOHNSON NAMES 2 UMPIRES FOR WORLD SERIES

Chicago, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Ban Johnson, president of the American league, today announced appointment of Umpires R. F. Mallin and E. T. Ormsby to officiate in world's series games.

LITTLE CHANCE TO CHANGE EDICT IN THE BIG FIGHT

ILLINOIS BOXING COMMISSION CERTAINLY WOULD BACK OFFICIALS' JUDGMENT

DEMPSEY NOW PROTESTING ONLY UNDER ADVICE OF LEO FLYNN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 27.—Jack Dempsey's chances of having the Tunney decision changed by the Illinois boxing commission are about one to one hundred because the commission hardly would dare to go against the precedent that the judgment of its officials must be backed.

There have been several occasions where the New York commission has been asked to reverse the decision of officials and refused to do it. There was a loud yell to have the decision of the referee reversed after he had ruled that Jack Dempsey had not fouled Jack Sharkey and after another referee had insisted that Dempsey did not violate the rules in his fight with Firpo.

In this connection Dempsey hasn't much room to complain. Of course the tossing away of a million dollar asset is not to be passed over lightly. Dempsey has had plenty of breaks—and in fact nearly all of the breaks—in every one of his big fights until he met Tunney the first time and then the breaks didn't go against him.

He had all the breaks in the Willard fight. He had the breaks in his fight with Tom Gibbons when he was permitted to get away with most anything. He battered Bill Brennan down with rabibt punches and he violated several rules in the Firpo fight.

In fairness to Dempsey, however, it must be said that he is protesting now only under advice. Leo Flynn is leading the advance on the Illinois commission and he is doing it partly to cover up the outsmarting he got from Bill Gibson and Jimmy Bronson of the Tunney camp. The Illinois rules provide that the count shall be started as soon as a man is knocked down and that it shall be picked up by the referee as soon as the man scoring the knockdown is in a neutral corner.

In a conference with the officials Gibson and Bronson suggested that the count should not be started until the man scoring the knockdown had reached the farthest neutral corner. Flynn agreed to it and Dempsey lost his big chance. Dempsey, following the instinct of a natural fighter, tried to get in a position where he would be behind Tunney when he was getting up. He went to a neutral corner but he didn't go to the farthest corner.

Flynn's charges that there were manipulations, gambling operations and referee fixing are the usual chatter that follows every big fight. Flynn is credited with being one of the smartest handlers in the game and if there had been any fixing and he didn't hear of it in time enough to get in an early protest his reputation for smartness is not justified.

Tunney, as far as the general public is concerned, will remain the heavyweight champion, regardless of the action of the Illinois commission. That part of the public which bet on the fight would raise an awful howl to have their money switched but it is generally understood in taking and placing bets that the money goes on the word of the referee and the judges if judges are being used.

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—The Omaha railroad has purchased two gas-electric cars, one for use between St. Paul and Fairmount, and the second in Nebraska, it was announced here today.

EACH TEAM SCHEDULED TO PLAY 4 GAMES

GIANTS HOPELESSLY OUT OF THE RACE, DEFEATED YESTERDAY BY PHILADELPHIA

BY ALL THE LAWS OF AVERAGE, BOTH TEAMS SHOULD LOSE TODAY

(By United Press)

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals, the former holding a two-game lead, today entered a contest for the pennant with each team scheduled to play only four games before the end of the season. The Giants were almost hopelessly out of the race because Philadelphia defeated them yesterday.

By all the laws of averages, both teams should lose today. The Pirates have won three of a four-game series with the Cubs, two of them by a one-run margin, and the Cards faced another game with the dangerous Cincinnati Reds. The standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	92	58	.613
St. Louis	90	60	.600
New York	88	61	.591

The Pirates were aided in defeating the Cubs by rain which stopped the game at the end of the sixth inning with Pittsburgh in the lead, 1 to 0. Miljus held the Cubs to four hits and old Art Nehf's slow curves fooled the Pirates in the pinches and kept them from scoring. The single Pittsburgh run was made possible when Nehf tried to stop a hot drive down the center of the infield and only succeeded in knocking the ball so far out of reach that it wasn't recovered until Paul Waner reached first.

Another pitchers' battle took place between Jess Haines of the Cards and Adolfo Luque of the Reds. The game went 12 innings with the score tied 1-1. Then when two were out in the 13th, Luque allowed a double and three singles which with an error, gave St. Louis two runs. The score was 3 to 1.

Downfall of the Giants was occasioned by Ulrich who allowed only seven hits while the Phillie batters got 17 off Faulkner, Grimes and Plitt. The score: Philadelphia, 9; New York, 2.

After a fairly close game in which the Red Sox made a triple play but lost 4 to 2, the Boston team stopped playing baseball, made ten errors and lost the second game to Washington, 11 to 2. The triple play was Flagstead to Regan to Hartley. Of the ten errors, four were charged against Moore, catcher, and two against Rogell, third baseman.

Limiting the Indians to three hits Billings, a former college pitcher, won for the Tigers, 8 to 3. Myatt of Cleveland hit a home run, preventing a shutout.

PENNANT HOPES OF CARDINALS DASHED

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 27. — The pennant hopes of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals received a setback today when it was announced that Bob O'Farrell, the Cardinals' manager and catcher, will not be able to be in the line-up for the remainder of the season.

The announcement was made by physicians following an X-ray examination of O'Farrell's right thumb which was injured yesterday when he was hit by a foul tip.

The photograph disclosed that a small piece of bone was chipped from the thumb.

BUFFALO READY FOR LITTLE WORLD SERIES

Toledo, O., Sept. 27.—(UP)—The Buffalo team, champion of the International league, was here today primed for the opening of the little world series with the Mud Hens, champions of the American association, tomorrow afternoon.

"I have a cracking good ball team," Bill Clymer, manager of the eastern team, said.

"Dick Meade and Casey Stengel have pulled together the best outfit in the American association and I anticipate a hard fought series with the Hens."

With the exception of Walter Huntzinger, pitcher, and Everett Scott shortstop, the Hens are in splendid condition.

3 YOUTHS ARRESTED PACK MANY GUNS

St. Paul, Sept. 27.—(UP)—Three youths, arrested late yesterday at Brunswick, Minn., were questioned by authorities here today in connection with the finding of several guns in an automobile they were using.

An automobile stolen from J. E. Terry, Parkers Prairie, was found in possession of the boys. In it at the time was found a large quantity of ammunition, five shotguns and three revolvers.

The artillery was stolen from cabins in northern Minnesota hunting resorts, police declared.

TUNNEY SAYS HE WILL CONSIDER A FIGHT OFFER

IF DEMPSEY WISHES TO BATTLE AGAIN, HE WILL CONSIDER MATTER

BELIEVES HIS TWO VICTORIES TO HAVE BEEN CONVINCING

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 27.—"If the public wishes Jack Dempsey to fight me again, I will consider it," Gene Tunney said today on his arrival here from Cleveland.

"But," the world's heavyweight champion added, "I consider my two victories in Philadelphia and Chicago convincing in themselves."

Tunney arrived shortly after 10 A. M. from Cleveland, where he had stopped en route east from Chicago.

A crowd of 2,500 or more at the Grand Central station gave the champion an ovation.

A squad of special police escorted him to his car and he was driven to the Hotel Breslin.

Questioned about the seventh round in Chicago, when Dempsey knocked him down and he was given the 'long count,' Tunney said:

"I admit I was slightly dazed, but it was good common sense to take the full count.

"As far as the so-called 'long count' was concerned," Tunney added, "it was understood before the fight started that the man who scored a knockdown must retire to a neutral corner before the count began."

Tunney said he expected to remain in New York a few days. Tomorrow or Wednesday he will give a luncheon to a few friends. Then he plans to start for the Maine woods for a vacation.

"I have no immediate plans for the future," he said when asked about the possibility of vaudeville or other activities. "I want to rest before I undertake any business."

CHINESE LECTURER TALKS ON PRESENT DAY CHINESE PROBLEMS

NO YONG PARK ADDRESSES THE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WEDNESDAY

Mr. No Yong Park, famed Chinese lecturer, gave the students a highly instructive account of modern Chinese problems, trouble and life. A naive of China and a graduate of the University of Columbia, Mr. Park possesses the ideal combination of knowledge of his topic and local manner of expression necessary to gain the full-hearted attention of his audience. Humor, always appreciated, found a high point of expression in his lecture, and was a pleasing displayal of Oriental wit expressing Occidental ideas.

"The problems of China today are the problems of the world. The result of the Chinese revolutions will affect the lives and progress of the world, due to the stupendous population of the Chinese people. China is becoming modernized as a result of the universal influence of steam, electricity and the newspaper." These were a few of the points brought out by Mr. Park.

The ordinary American individual when thinking of the Chinese turmoil, pictures one great revolution; one right against one wrong; the North against the South. This view was forcibly dispelled from our minds by the assurance that, not one, but nine separate revolutions are underway in the present China. Nine revolutions dealing with most of the great, fundamental principles on which any government is founded. As explained to us:

1. The industrial revolution embodies the important turning from Eastern, ancient ideas of labor to new, mechanical labor principles as introduced by the powerful and farsighted Occidentals.

2. The educational revolution typifies an ignorant, uneducated country, called by the need of knowledge, striving to educate its masses; to fit its people for the high place which they will soon have in the standing of the nations of the world. At the present time five million children of this disturbed country attend public schools. Were facilities at hand to accommodate the students in the same proporion as in America, 80 million children would be gaining the knowledge assential for the best governing of future China, nearly four-fifths of the American population. This is the problem confronting the educators in China.

3. The political revolution, cruel as the French revolt, combines the South's fight for democracy with the North's wish for a monarchy; while the petty and self-interested actions of the provincial governors complicate the struggle.

4. The transportation difficulies. The old mehods of transportation, by back or beast of burden, are slowly being replaced by the use of steam and electricity. The necessity of more of this power is an apparently great problem.

5. The revolt against foreign imperialism. "As foreigners, we love you, but as imperialists you earn our hatred."

6. The social revolution in which western ideas and customs are being adopted.

Due to lack of time Mr. Park was unable to explain the other three phases of the Chinese revolution.

"America," Mr. Park finished, "has always been China's best friend and it is our hope that the rising generation here will even further the work that their fathers have started, of helping the Chinese people solve their problems."

PEGGY SAYS—

Yep, here's nearly another week of school and we've all been worrying our poor heads dizzy, trying to imagine how we ever lived over the week end without our precious books. The students are so very studious this year, you see.

Don't suppose anyone has told you about the Chinaman that gave us a much enjoyed speech the other day, have they? Well! 'bout the first thing he goes and says is that we have the most beautiful teachers. Also tells us that this old building of ours is beautiful and here we've been wanting a new high school all these years. Here's hoping no members of the school board were present and heard that remark or they're apt to take it quite to heart and think it's so beautiful that we had ought to use it another ten years. Miss Tornstrom's English IV class had the honor of seeing him arrive and you can make up your mind that we gave him the once over good and proper.

By the way, tomorrow night is the Senior election. We hope we can do it peacably 'cause it's such a common thing for Seniors to wage bloody battles and it would spoil every thing to have to call out the militia to settle our high and mighty disputes. I haven't really decided what ticket I'll vote on, but guess I'll not worry because women shouldn't be so prominent in politics.

Somebody said there's goin' to be a game next Friday. Let's all turn out and see who can yell the most. There's quite a few of us I know who have excellent lungs, when it comes to singing or the like. You'll agree with me if you'd have heard Miss Rickard trying out the Glee clubs the other night.

Now has anyone a law they wish to have acted upon in Congress? If he has just seen any of Miss Gipson's Social Science classes and I'm sure that they would be very glad to do anything to help him if possible. They have plans formed to have a mock day in Washington, D. C. The president, vice-president, congressmen, and senators have been elected and my word, but they really make fine looking statesmen. The president looks most as dignified as Mr. Coolidge.

THE FACULTY ARE GUESTS OF W. C. T. U.

The entire faculty of the Brainerd schools were the guests of the W. C. T. U. ladies last Friday night at a chicken dinner given in the basement of the Swedish Baptist church. The meal itself was thoroughly enjoyed, but even more enjoyable was the atmosphere of friendliness that pervaded the meeting. Not only were the teachers present but also the wives of those fortunate to possess wives.

After the meal was over, Rev. Morris Eversz, acting as toastmaster, cleverly presented the speakers of the evening. Miss Alta Franklin welcomed the new teachers in a very kindly and thoughtful vein. To this welcome Miss Doris Taylor responded with the heartfelt thanks of the most recent arrivals. The really serious talks were given by Rev. Strothman and Rev. Damon, who showed the teachers the various ways in which they might influence the outlook of the rising generation in regard to law enforcement. With singing and closing prayer, the meeting adjourned.

The teachers both old and new, were very pleased at the dinner and expressed on every hand their thorough appreciation of the kindness of the W. C. T. U. ladies.

Girls Open Years With Tennis Tournament

The first girls' tennis tournament in the history of the Brainerd high school took place last week. The sets were played on the elimination basis. The contestants were:

Dorothy Kleven vs. Alice Nolan.

Louise Clausen vs. Helen Bane.

Margaret Springer vs. Carrol Hoffman.

Irene Molstad vs. Sylvia Ericson.

The finals between Dorothy Kleven and Irene Molstad were won by the former.

We hope this tournament will arouse the girls' pep so they will take part in the sports to come.

BRAINONIAN STAFF IS STILL UNSELECTED

Thus far, two Brainonian meetings have been held. At the first one, about eighteen students were present, including five of last years staff —Milford Downie, Kathleen Early, Ina Rand, Allen Johnson and Donald McNamara.

At the second meeting the attendance was more than doubled due to the fact that a large number of Freshmen had decided to enter our ranks.

Of course, there aren't positions on the staff for all these newcomers but if their interest is genuine and if there are one or two upperclassmen who are willing to act as advisers, there is a possibility of organizing an Underwriters club.

This club was organized in 1925 by Sophie Brending for the purpose of helping the staff, by contributing articles for the paper and were sometimes given the privilege of publishing an edition by themselves. From this organization are chosen members for the next year's staff, as people of experience are preferred for the staff.

FIRST GAME TO BE PLAYED FRIDAY

BRAINERD MEETS STAPLES AT STAPLES IN FAST GAME

This Friday Brainerd will play the first game of the football season with Staples on their field. As Staples is considered one of the stiffest opponents of the schedule the squad has been doing a great deal of hard practising, especially in blocking and tackling, as this is one of the essential qualities of any winning team, and they are determined to bring home the honors this year.

There has been an increase of scrimmage in the last two weeks, for in this way the team finds its weak points and is rounded into shape.

As for the lineup, it would be impossible to give it definitely due to the great deal of keen competition. Perhaps it will not be known until just before the game.

Sparks From The Gridiron

Henry Hanson sprained his ankle last week but it is hoped that it will recover in time so he can play at Staples.

Who's going to get the new football pants? That's the question. Five new pair and it's gettin' close to the time when they're to be given out.

There are eleven new helmets but they're not fighting over those.

It was anything but music to hear that John Gabiou and Art Liaitala were ineligible.

John Gabiou's team better known as the "Invincibles" played the high school last Wednesday. This was of a great help to the team and the men all appreciated it.

Just about this time the eligibility list goes around. Wonder if any of the fellows are down. We all hope not.

There were a number of business men down at the field last Thursday. It appeared as though they were trying to find some way to lay out the gridiron so the sandy baseball diamond would be at one side of it. We hope they succeed.

There are a number of Sophomore and Junior boys out for football this year. Prospects look good for next year.

Saturday practice is a new thing this year. The men all like it and claim it is of a great benefit to the team.

From the way some of the fellows beards have been let grow, Staples will probably think they're playing "The House of David."

Practice was held Saturday morning instead of in the afternoon so as to enable the team to see the Aitkin-Milaca game which was played at Aitkin. The former won 18 to 0.

Former B. H. S. Student To Make World Tour

Don Jones, who is well remembered by the upper classmen, left Brainerd, today for a tour of the world.

His mother and father have received a contract to tour the world for five years with a stock company.

Don is going to England with them and expects to finish his high school course at Harrow. From there he is going to Africa with the company, touring the country while his father and mother play in the largest cities of the continent.

After completing the tour of Africa, Don will finish his education in Australia.

"Terrible Tales"

(Selected)

My very first impression was that I was a bit shaky-in-the-knees because of the "terrible tales" many of the upper classmen had told me.

But I picked up courage and went inside and followed the crowd. They led me (or rather shoved, and pushed me) to the big assembly on the second floor. Here I found somebody to sit with, and someone else to make out my program with. We wrote it out, although what we were writing was all Greek to us.

Then all the Freshmen were sent to a room at the opposite end of the hall, where Miss Erstad explained to us what we were to do, where we were to go, and all the other essentials of high school life.

The first day was quite an experience to me but the next was even a greater one. The rush from classroom to classroom, upstairs and downstairs; all were quite a novelty.

There's nothing like that in grade school!

After attending the classes and getting seated in our assembly, I decided that being a Freshman wasn't such a hazardous business after all.

My Vacation Trip

On the morning of June, 16th we started for the mountains in Wyoming. The day was misty and dark. We got about sixty miles when all of a sudden the car stopped and Father had to get out to find what it was. He crawled under the car and looked at the engine and tinkered with the engine a while when Mother looked at the gas. We were all out of gas so Dad had to go to a farm house about a mile down the road. He got enough to get to the next station. We were there about a half an hour and when we were ready to start and Billy was not to be found. We looked all over town for him and Mother made Dad call the Cops'. We were there for about an hour more and we found Billy curled up in the carrier with the dog. It was about six o'clock before we got started out of that place. At noon the next day we were at the mountains and Father was scared stiff to drive up them but Mother made him do it. So we started up the mountain and we had to go around sharp curves. Once we came to a place where there was a steep cliff and a sharp corner and Dad was so nervous he forgot to turn and Mother stepped on the brakes just in time or we never would have gotten home.

"Bugs"

I heard a sound. It seemed to be an airplane afar off. I craned my neck to look out the window, but could see nothing. Soon the humming ceased, and there, walking towards me, was a terrible monster. He was a horrible looking thing, with six legs, and scores of eyes looking wickedly at me. He was getting closer and closer. Suddenly he raised himself from the ground, and began to fly! I was almost paralyzed with fright. Then I happened to think of something, and immediately took the magnifying glasses from my eyes. There, quietly wending his cheerful way around the room, was an innocent little fly.

I'm just a "green Freshman" but one thing I realize is that Billy Johnstone's shoes need oiling.

IRENE MOLSTAD IS SECRETARY AND HENRY VIKEN TREASURER

The election of the officers of the class of 1928 was held Friday afternoon and a spirited contest for the various offices resulted, in some cases the winner being only a few votes in the lead of the loser.

The nomination committee was called in Thursday afternoon by Miss Tornstrom and a list of candidates prepared for the voting the following day.

Donald McNamara was chosen as president of the class and Kathleen Early, who was second high in the voting, was elected vice president.

Irene Molstad won for secretary while Henry Viken won the position of treasurer.

The positions of sergeants-at-arms were won respectively by Henry Hanson and Lester Creger.

Regular class meetings are planned for the year and with a leadership of live officers, the class looks forward to a pleasant year.

Glee Clubs, Orchestra Organize for the Year

Concerning the work of the orchestra and the Glee clubs for this year, so far very little has been done, but Miss Rickard has been busy entering new pupils and arranging parts.

Six members of the orchestra were graduated last year, but others have applied for membership to take their places. At the first practice meeting there were twenty-four students present. This is a promising outlook for our new year in orchestral work. We are looking forward to one of the best and most inspiring years that we have ever had in this line.

The special Glee club will continue its good work as usual.

The boys have taken a special interest in Glee club work this year. They are anxious to get started as they have not forgotten the jolly good times and the strenuous hours of practise that they enjoyed together last year. Here's hoping that we will hear much from the boys before the snow flies.

The girls' Glee clubs have many new members this year. So far little aside from voice-testing has been done, but they are all anxious to begin the regular work.

By the end of this week we hope to have the orchestra and Glee clubs well started.

Tomorrow Morning at 8:15 Mrs. Damson Butterwing will be drinking your favorite coffee

She lives nine hundred miles from here. You've never seen her. Never talked to her. Probably never will. Yet tomorrow morning she will join you and thousands of other women who are saying that the finest flavor ever poured from a percolator is found at last.

An advertisement in Mrs. Butterwing's newspaper discovered this marvelous coffee for her. Just as the same or similar advertisements discovered it for you and other grateful women in every city in the land.

Or, maybe it isn't coffee. It may be corn flakes or corn syrup. Perhaps a new kitchen device that saves hours in a single day. Or a soap, or a sealing wax. . . .

But whatever it is, you can depend on it that advertising carried the message of its goodness, its saving, its economy.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper. It will bring the thrill of discovery. New things. New ways of using old things. New hours of freedom. Turn to it now

CHINESE LECTURER TALKS ON PRESENT DAY CHINESE PROBLEMS

NO YONG PARK ADDRESSES THE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS WEDNESDAY

Mr. No Yong Park, famed Chinese lecturer, gave the students a highly instructive account of modern Chinese problems, trouble and life. A naive of China and a graduate of the University of Columbia, Mr. Park possesses the ideal combination of knowledge of his topic and local manner of expression necessary to gain the full-hearted attention of his audience. Humor, always appreciated, found a high point of expression in his lecture, and was a pleasing displayal of Oriental wit expressing Occidental ideas.

"The problems of China today are the problems of the world. The result of the Chinese revolutions will affect the lives and progress of the world, due to the stupendous population of the Chinese people. China is becoming modernized as a result of the universal influence of steam, electricity and the newspaper." These were a few of the points brought out by Mr. Park.

The ordinary American individual when thinking of the Chinese turmoil, pictures one great revolution; one right against one wrong; the North against the South. This view was forcibly dispelled from our minds by the assurance that, not one, but nine separate revolutions are underway in the present China. Nine revolutions dealing with most of the great, fundamental principles on which any government is founded. As explained to us:

1. The industrial revolution embodies the important turning from Eastern, ancient ideas of labor to new, mechanical labor principles as introduced by the powerful and farsighted Occidentals.

2. The educational revolution typifies an ignorant, uneducated country, called by the need of knowledge, striving to educate its masses; to fit its people for the high place which they will soon have in the standing of the nations of the world. At the present time five million children of this disturbed country attend public schools. Were facilities at hand to accommodate the students in the same proporion as in America, 80 million children would be gaining the knowledge assential for the best governing of future China, nearly four-fifths of the American population. This is the problem confronting the educators in China.

3. The political revolution, cruel as the French revolt, combines the South's fight for democracy with the North's wish for a monarchy; while the petty and self-interested actions of the provincial governors complicate the struggle.

4. The transportation difficulties. The old mehods of transportation, by back or beast of burden, are slowly being replaced by the use of steam and electricity. The necessity of more of this power is an apparently great problem.

5. The revolt against foreign imperialism. "As foreigners, we love you, but as imperialists you earn our hatred."

6. The social revolution in which western ideas and customs are being adopted.

Due to lack of time Mr. Park was unable to explain the other three phases of the Chinese revolution.

"America," Mr. Park finished, "has always been China's best friend and it is our hope that the rising generation here will even further the work that their fathers have started, of helping the Chinese people solve their problems."

Girls Open Years With Tennis Tournament

The first girls' tennis tournament in the history of the Brainerd high school took place last week. The sets were played on the elimination basis. The contestants were:

Dorothy Kleven vs. Alice Nolan.

Louise Clausen vs. Helen Bane.

Margaret Springer vs. Carrol Hoffman.

Irene Molstad vs. Sylvia Ericson.

The finals between Dorothy Kleven and Irene Molstad were won by the former.

We hope this tournament will arouse the girls' pep so they will take part in the sports to come.

Miss Gipson (in Ancient History) "What is the Order of the Bath?"

Clifford: First pa, then ma, then us kids, then the hired girl."

PEGGY SAYS—

Yep, here's nearly another week of school and we've all been worrying our poor heads dizzy, trying to imagine how we ever lived over the week end without our precious books. The students are so very studious this year, you see.

Don't suppose anyone has told you about the Chinaman that gave us a much enjoyed speech the other day, have they? Well! 'bout the first thing he goes and says is that we have the most beautiful teachers. Also tells us that this old building of ours is beautiful and here we've been wanting a new high school all these years. Here's hoping no members of the school board were present and heard that remark or they're apt to take it quite to heart and think it's so beautiful that we had ought to use it another ten years. Miss Tornstrom's English IV class had the honor of seeing him arrive and you can make up your mind that we gave him the once over good and proper.

By the way, tomorrow night is the Senior election. We hope we can do it peacably 'cause it's such a common thing for Seniors to wage bloody battles and it would spoil every thing to have to call out the militia to settle our high and mighty disputes. I haven't really decided what ticket I'll vote on, but guess I'll not worry because women shouldn't be so prominent in politics.

Somebody said there's goin' to be a game next Friday. Let's all turn out and see who can yell the most. There's quite a few of us I know who have excellent lungs, when it comes to singing or the like. You'll agree with me if you'd have heard Miss Rickard trying out the Glee clubs the other night.

Now has anyone a law they wish to have acted upon in Congress? If he has just seen any of Miss Gipson's Social Science classes and I'm sure that they would be very glad to do anything to help him if possible. They have plans formed to have a mock day in Washington, D. C. The president, vice-president, congressmen, and senators have been elected and my word, but they really make fine looking statesmen. The president looks most as dignified as Mr. Coolidge.

THE FACULTY ARE GUESTS OF W. C. T. U.

The entire faculty of the Brainerd schools were the guests of the W. C. T. U. ladies last Friday night at a chicken dinner given in the basement of the Swedish Baptist church. The meal itself was thoroughly enjoyed, but even more enjoyable was the atmosphere of friendliness that pervaded the meeting. Not only were the teachers present but also the wives of those fortunate to possess wives.

After the meal was over, Rev. Morris Eversz, acting as toastmaster, cleverly presented the speakers of the evening. Miss Alta Franklin welcomed the new teachers in a very kindly and thoughtful vein. To this welcome Miss Doris Taylor responded with the heartfelt thanks of the most recent arrivals. The really serious talks were given by Rev. Strothman and Rev. Damon, who showed the teachers the various ways in which they might influence the outlook of the rising generation in regard to law enforcement. With singing and closing prayer, the meeting adjourned.

The teachers both old and new, were very pleased at the dinner and expressed on every hand their thorough appreciation of the kindness of the W. C. T. U. ladies.

Bob Anderson: "I'll wear my overcoat."

BRAINONIAN STAFF IS STILL UNSELECTED

Thus far, two Brainonian meetings have been held. At the first one, about eighteen students were present, including five of last years staff —Milford Downie, Kathleen Early, Ina Rand, Allen Johnson and Donald McNamara.

At the second meeting the attendance was more than doubled due to the fact that a large number of Freshmen had decided to enter our ranks.

Of course, there aren't positions on the staff for all these newcomers but if their interest is genuine and if there are one or two upperclassmen who are willing to act as advisers, there is a possibility of organizing an Underwriters club.

This club was organized in 1925 by Sophie Brending for the purpose of helping the staff, by contributing articles for the paper and were sometimes given the privilege of publishing an edition by themselves. From this organization are chosen members for the next year's staff, as people of experience are preferred for the staff.

FIRST GAME TO BE PLAYED FRIDAY

BRAINERD MEETS STAPLES AT STAPLES IN FAST GAME

This Friday Brainerd will play the first game of the football season with Staples on their field. As Staples is considered one of the stiffest opponents of the schedule the squad has been doing a great deal of hard practising, especially in blocking and tackling, as this is one of the essential qualities of any winning team, and they are determined to bring home the honors this year.

There has been an increase of scrimmage in the last two weeks, for in this way the team finds its weak points and is rounded into shape.

As for the lineup, it would be impossible to give it definitely due to the great deal of keen competition. Perhaps it will not be known until just before the game.

Sparks From The Gridiron

Henry Hanson sprained his ankle last week but it is hoped that it will recover in time so he can play at Staples.

Who's going to get the new football pants? That's the question. Five new pair and it's gettin' close to the time when they're to be given out.

There are eleven new helmets but they're not fighting over those.

It was anything but music to hear that John Gabiou and Art Liaitala were ineligible.

John Gabiou's team better known as the "Invincibles" played the high school last Wednesday. This was of a great help to the team and the men all appreciated it.

Just about this time the eligibility list goes around. Wonder if any of the fellows are down. We all hope not.

There were a number of business men down at the field last Thursday. It appeared as though they were trying to find some way to lay out the gridiron so the sandy baseball diamond would be at one side of it. We hope they succeed.

There are a number of Sophomore and Junior boys out for football this year. Prospects look good for next year.

Saturday practice is a new thing this year. The men all like it and claim it is of a great benefit to the team.

From the way some of the fellows beards have been let grow, Staples will probably think they're playing "The House of David."

Practice was held Saturday morning instead of in the afternoon so as to enable the team to see the Aitkin-Milaca game which was played at Aitkin. The former won 18 to 0.

Former B. H. S. Student To Make World Tour

Don Jones, who is well remembered by the upper classmen, left Brainerd, today for a tour of the world.

His mother and father have received a contract to tour the world for five years with a stock company.

Don is going to England with them and expects to finish his high school course at Harrow. From there he is going to Africa with the company, touring the country while his father and mother play in the largest cities of the continent.

After completing the tour of Africa, Don will finish his education in Australia.

DONALD McNAMARA IS ELECTED PRESIDENT SENIOR CLASS OF '28

ALUMNI

Marian and Nina Romain and Albert Rathert, all of the class of '25, have gone to the University of Minnesota for the coming year.

* * *

Walter Engbretson, '25, left last week to attend the Hamline University.

* * *

Mauritz Hagberg, '27, went to Milwaukee, Wis., where he will take a dental course at the Marquette University.

* * *

Iva Trask, '26, is attending the Junior College at Virginia, Minn., this year.

* * *

Hjalmer Johnson, '25, went to Fargo, N. D. He will take an engineering course at the State school there.

* * *

Alice Johnstone, '20, who is teaching harmony at the Penn Hall in Chambersburg, Pa., visited at her home last week.

Lois Chadbourne, '23, supervisor of music at Grand Rapids, Minn., and Winifred Spencer, '23, teacher at Ashby, Minn., were home over the week-end.

"Terrible Tales"

(Selected)

My very first impression was that I was a bit shaky-in-the-knees because of the "terrible tales" many of the upper classmen had told me.

But I picked up courage and went inside and followed the crowd. They led me (or rather shoved, and pushed me) to the big assembly on the second floor. Here I found somebody to sit with, and someone else to make out my program with. We wrote it out, although what we were writing was all Greek to us.

Then all the Freshmen were sent to a room at the opposite end of the hall, where Miss Erstad explained to us what we were to do, where we were to go, and all the other essentials of high school life.

The first day was quite an experience to me but the next was even a greater one. The rush from classroom to classroom, upstairs and downstairs; all were quite a novelty.

There's nothing like that in grade school!

After attending the classes and getting seated in our assembly, I decided that being a Freshman wasn't such a hazardous business after all.

My Vacation Trip

On the morning of June, 16th we started for the mountains in Wyoming. The day was misty and dark. We got about sixty miles when all of a sudden the car stopped and Father had to get out to find what it was. He crawled under the car and looked at the engine and tinkered with the engine a while when Mother looked at the gas. We were all out of gas so Dad had to go to a farm house about a mile down the road. He got enough to get to the next station. We were there about a half an hour and when we were ready to start and Billy was not to be found. We looked all over town for him and Mother made Dad call the Cops'. We were there for about an hour more and we found Billy curled up in the carrier with the dog. It was about six o'clock before we got started out of that place. At noon the next day we were at the mountains and Father was scared stiff to drive up them but Mother made him do it. So we started up the mountain and we had to go around sharp curves. Once we came to a place where there was a steep cliff and a sharp corner and Dad was so nervous he forgot to turn and Mother stepped on the brakes just in time or we never would have gotten home.

"Bugs"

I heard a sound. It seemed to be an airplane afar off. I craned my neck to look out the window, but could see nothing. Soon the humming ceased, and there, walking towards me, was a terrible monster. He was a horrible looking thing, with six legs, and scores of eyes looking wickedly at me. He was getting closer and closer. Suddenly he raised himself from the ground, and began to fly! I was almost paralyzed with fright. Then I happened to think of something, and immediately took the magnifying glasses from my eyes. There, quietly wending his cheerful way around the room, was an innocent little fly.

I'm just a "green Freshman" but one thing I realize is that Billy Johnstone's shoes need oiling.

IRENE MOLSTAD IS SECRETARY AND HENRY VIKEN TREASURER

The election of the officers of the class of 1928 was held Friday afternoon and a spirited contest for the various offices resulted, in some cases the winner being only a few votes in the lead of the loser.

The nomination committee was called in Thursday afternoon by Miss Tornstrom and a list of candidates prepared for the voting the following day.

Donald McNamara was chosen as president of the class and Kathleen Early, who was second high in the voting, was elected vice president.

Irene Molstad won for secretary while Henry Viken won the position of treasurer.

The positions of sergeants-at-arms were won respectively by Henry Hanson and Lester Creger.

Regular class meetings are planned for the year and with a leadership of live officers, the class looks forward to a pleasant year.

Glee Clubs, Orchestra Organize for the Year

Concerning the work of the orchestra and the Glee clubs for this year, so far very little has been done, but Miss Rickard has been busy entering new pupils and arranging parts.

Six members of the orchestra were graduated last year, but others have applied for membership to take their places. At the first practice meeting there were twenty-four students present. This is a promising outlook for our new year in orchestral work. We are looking forward to one of the best and most inspiring years that we have ever had in this line.

The special Glee club will continue its good work as usual.

The boys have taken a special interest in Glee club work this year. They are anxious to get started as they have not forgotten the jolly good times and the strenuous hours of practise that they enjoyed together last year. Here's hoping that we will hear much from the boys before the snow flies.

The girls' Glee clubs have many new members this year. So far little aside from voice-testing has been done, but they are all anxious to begin the regular work.

By the end of this week we hope to have the orchestra and Glee clubs well started.

Who, What and Where

The Freshmen girls are starting their practice for basket-ball. They met Monday for the first time.

* * *

Miss Rickard has organized two new Glee clubs, one for the "Freshie" girls, the other for the boys.

* * *

The Seniors have had their election. Everyone seems to be satisfied with the outcome.

* * *

Mr. Kasch certainly knows how to make his Social Science class interesting. The end always seems to come too soon.

* * *

The Seniors don't seem to look down on the under classmen this year. I have seen several Seniors talking with Freshies.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO N. E. GARAGE

Jimmied Front and Office Doors, Escaped With $40 in Cash From Register

POLICE FOLLOW UP CLUES

G. L. Forsythe, Owner, Believed That Work Done by Local Amateurs

Police today were following up every clue in an attempt to apprehend the burglars who last night jimmied the front door of the G. L. Forsythe garage at A. street and 3rd Avenue N. E., broke through the office door, pilfered the till of $40, stole several small articles about the garage and escaped.

Mr. Forsythe stated this morning that he was of the opinion that the burglary was a local job and that the party undoubtedly was familiar with the garage.

The doors were pried opened with a screw driver. The cash register was unlocked.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD CONVENTION HERE

68th Annual Meet to Attract Speakers of National and International Fame

OCTOBER 10, 11, 12

Women's Board, Young People Work to Make Event Long Remembered Success

Speakers internationally known as well as those of national reputation from New York to Los Angeles are slated to conduct conferences and address the Baptists of Minnesota who will gather for their 68th annual convention in Brainerd on Oct. 10, 11, 12.

W. C. Coleman, of Witchita, Kans., president of the Northern Baptist convention will deliver two addresses. The women's work will be presented by Miss Huber of Porto Rico and Miss Freda Peter of Burma and Miss Ann Kludt, of Japan.

Determined on making the convention one of the best the Baptist delegates have yet had the privilege to attend the Women's Board and the young people have been busy laying plans for the convention.

In selecting Brainerd as the convention city the delegates heartily endorsed this city as the ideal location for the meeting on account of its central position, fine roads and beauty spots.

The Baptist church and other churches in the city will cooperate in extending hospitality.

CLEAR GROUND FOR NEW OIL STATION

Standard Oil Company to Erect New Building on 6th and Kingwood Street Corner

WORK STARTS TODAY

Excavation Work Expected to Start This Week; Company to do Job

Initial work started this morning in the clearing of the ground on the southeast corner of Sixth and Kingwood streets in preparation for the erection of a large oil station by the Standard Oil Company.

Local officials of the company were awaiting the arrival today of Barney Bahn, of Duluth who will be employed by the company to have charge of the construction.

The work today consisted of the tearing up of the sidewalk and the excavating of several stumps of trees. Excavation work on the grounds is expected to start within two days.

It was unknown here today just what action the company would take regarding the building, whether it would be wrecked or removed. P. A. Erickson, florist, was previously the owner of the building.

The proposed erection of an oil station on the north side was the source of argument between members of the city council at the time the license was applied for. The license was granted on the majority of vote by the city council.

Although no definite announcement has been made regarding the size of the new oil station it is the belief that the company will erect a large station and beautify the grounds.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO N. E. GARAGE

Jimmied Front and Office Doors, Escaped With $40 in Cash From Register

POLICE FOLLOW UP CLUES

G. L. Forsythe, Owner, Believed That Work Done by Local Amateurs

Police today were following up every clue in an attempt to apprehend the burglars who last night jimmied the front door of the G. L. Forsythe garage at A. street and 3rd Avenue N. E., broke through the office door, pilfered the till of $40, stole several small articles about the garage and escaped.

Mr. Forsythe stated this morning that he was of the opinion that the burglary was a local job and that the party undoubtedly was familiar with the garage.

The doors were pried opened with a screw driver. The cash register was unlocked.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD CONVENTION HERE

68th Annual Meet to Attract Speakers of National and International Fame

OCTOBER 10, 11, 12

Women's Board, Young People Work to Make Event Long Remembered Success

Speakers internationally known as well as those of national reputation from New York to Los Angeles are slated to conduct conferences and address the Baptists of Minnesota who will gather for their 68th annual convention in Brainerd on Oct. 10, 11, 12.

W. C. Coleman, of Witchita, Kans., president of the Northern Baptist convention will deliver two addresses. The women's work will be presented by Miss Huber of Porto Rico and Miss Freda Peter of Burma and Miss Ann Kludt, of Japan.

Determined on making the convention one of the best the Baptist delegates have yet had the privilege to attend the Women's Board and the young people have been busy laying plans for the convention.

In selecting Brainerd as the convention city the delegates heartily endorsed this city as the ideal location for the meeting on account of its central position, fine roads and beauty spots.

The Baptist church and other churches in the city will cooperate in extending hospitality.

WILL RELINE BOILER

Northern Pacific Undertakes Work of Putting "Y." Hot Water System in Shape

Y. M. C. A. officials received word today fro mthe head office of the Northern Pacific railway that the company would reline the hot water boiler in the Y. M. C. A. building.

The boiler will be taken to the shops and returned in a few days. When this work is completed it will mean that the Y. M. C. A. will have practically a new heating system which will greatly add to the convenience of the building.

This action on the part of the railway is in keeping with their policy to maintain their share of the support for the local Y. M. C. A.

CLEAR GROUND FOR NEW OIL STATION

Standard Oil Company to Erect New Building on 6th and Kingwood Street Corner

WORK STARTS TODAY

Excavation Work Expected to Start This Week; Company to do Job

Initial work started this morning in the clearing of the ground on the southeast corner of Sixth and Kingwood streets in preparation for the erection of a large oil station by the Standard Oil Company.

Local officials of the company were awaiting the arrival today of Barney Bann, of Duluth who will be employed by the company to have charge of the construction.

The work today consisted of the tearing up of the sidewalk and the excavating of several stumps of trees. Excavation work on the grounds is expected to start within two days.

It was unknown here today just what action the company would take regarding the building, whether it would be wrecked or removed. P. A. Erickson, florist, was previously the owner of the building.

The proposed erection of an oil station on the north side was the source of argument between members of the city council at the time the license was applied for. The license was granted on the majority of vote by the city council.

Although no definite announcement has been made regarding the size of the new oil station it is the belief that the company will erect a large station and beautify the grounds.

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a roistering young man of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, hears the call of America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare, daughter of Old Tom Kildare, who had let his farm go to ruin while he talked politics to the villagers. The fair at Knockbotherum, a few miles away, has begun and an old fortune teller is one of the chief attractions to the country folk.

"Th' ould witch do still be bringin' luck to th' childer," they would whisper as they made their way on, and the sentimental wife and mother would clutch the arm of her lord and master a bit more firmly as the vision of his fine youthful figure would loom for the moment out of memory's past.

"'Tis a wife ye need for good ballast, Emmett Murtough," the old fortune teller said, the while she shuffled the cards upon the table in front of her. She gazed frankly into the blue eyes, squinting now in a frown and he listened. "Ye've a gift for gab and a gift for the makin' o' frinds of strangers, but 'tis a wife ye need lad, a good girl an' none o' these teasin' baggages with flighty heads."

"An' ye think I would do well away?" he asked.

"Ye might an' yet again ye mightn't. But there's a voyage in the cards for ye an' it'll be soon. But ye'll have to stand on yer own, me lad. 'Tis little the fairies did give ye. It may be ye were born on a dark night an' the fairies forgot ye."

"I need no fairies," the Murtough cried impatiently. "I'll do with me good right arm an' the brains that are in me own head here!"

"An' so ye may, lad, an' so ye may, but 'tis a good wife that'll help ye, come the days when yer stubbornness is on ye."

A good wife, thought Emmett as he strolled toward the racing course where soon the speediest horses of the countryside would contest. That would be Sheila. But there must be no marriage now; later on after he had made good in America, then would he send for her, if he needed her at all. Were there not women in America; hadn't he seen the pictures of them in the illustrated magazines printed in London and which occasional travelers had left at Mrs. O'Farrell's Inn? Beautiful they were in their fine clothes. Who could tell, perhaps, there was one of them just waiting for his coming over there in America where every man had an even chance to become rich and powerful.

Emmett attended every day of the week of the fair. Few shillings he had in his pocket for entertainment, but the bustle and hustle matched his restlessness. Here was life, he thought, and if this were life what would it be over where all his dreams were centered.

The day at the Knockbotherum Fair was the one holiday in the year for Sheila Kildare. There were a thousand things to see; the prize cattle and pigs, and the wonderful display of homespun clothes and of needlework submitted for prizes by the wives of the countryside. Sheila gave herself over to the excitement completely. Nothing was too trivial to see and to exclaim over. Old Tom Kildare was more interested in the stock exhibit than anything else. He prided himself that he knew good horseflesh and as for jumpers, well, hadn't he ridden cross country races for the Squire when he was young. And many were the fine fields he beat, too, he would boast. Left to herself Sheila visited the booths alone; sometimes joining in with a group of gay girls from Killanmaul way and four abreast, arm in arm, they would skip along the main thoroughfare of the fair grounds returning smile for smile with the young blades who passed.

Milk and egg pennies had been saved and treasured in the blue pot on the shelf above the fireplace at the Kildare cottage for months before fair time. This treasure was now Sheila's to spend for what she willed; for bright ribbons and a piece of silk or a pair of stockings and, yes, even a pair of bright garters, which she tucked away in her bag that no one might ever see! Sheila had shopped alone and she was idling away before the booths waiting for Old Tom when she came to Mother O'Reilly's tent.

"Tell y'er fortune, pretty miss," the old woman pleaded. "Only a shilling, an' 'tis a fair fortune ye have, as I can see with my own eyes," she tempted. Sheila hesitated. A hand touched her shoulder.

"Go on, Sheila. She told mine an' she says it's a voyage I'm to take and soon. 'Tis on me way to America I'll be before many days," Emmett Murtough boasted.

"America? Oh, Emmett, not right away," she cried.

"The old hag says 'tis to be soon, didn't you, Mother," Emmett asked of the fortune teller. The old woman nodded.

"But I said 'tis a good wife ye'll be needin'," the old woman added, "an' ye'll never do better than her I'm thinkin', if ye can win her, lad."

Sheila blushed.

"'Tis my one an' only sweetheart she is," said Emmett.

"'Tis on me way to America I'll be before many days."

"Go on, ye gabbler you," Sheila laughed as she gave him a playful push. "I'll have me fortune told an' I'm sure there's a handsomer man than you awaitin' fer me," she cried as she sat down opposite Mother O'Reilly.

"'Tis a merry heart ye have," began the fortune teller as she laid out the cards, "an' a brave one. The fairies were good to ye an' they gave ye the gifts for happiness in yer life."

"Go way, Emmett Murtough," Sheila cried as he lingered near. "I'll have no one hearin' me fortune but meself. Go an' find Dad, for 'tis goin' home we must be with half the night to drive the way. Will ye ride home with us, Emmett?"

"No, 'tis stayin' in Knockbotherum I am tonight," he said as he turned. "I suppose I'll find the old man down near the stock pens?"

"Or maybe he's after havin' a glass," put in Sheila. "I haven't seen him for the hours now."

"Ah, me dear, an' 'tis a fine life we'll be havin'. There'll be ups an' downs an' the worries an' all, just as there is for everybody. But the fairies have been good to ye an' there's happiness waitin' at the end. Do ye just be brave an' ye'll win against all the troubles that'll come to ye. Ye have the singing heart, acushla, an' them with the singing heart is never afraid of divil or baste."

"An' will I have true love," Sheila asked.

"Sure, an' that's always a girl's question! Ye will, ye will; but don't pick too easy an' don't take the word of every easy speaking divil ye meet, dear. There's many an' many that'll want to kiss ye'r pretty lips an' look into ye'r eyes for the love light there, but be warned an' don't take the first that pops the question to ye."

"But if my heart is already given?"

"Ah, an' what girl of ye'r age, a bare eighteen I take it, knows her own heart! Be off with ye! Ye've plenty an' plenty of time to change ye'r mind, acushla darling."

(To be continued)

Elizabeth's Statue

A statue of Queen Elizabeth in side paniers and farthingale is now said to be the oldest public statue in London. It bears the date 1586. Originally set up on Ludgate hill, the stone queen survived the great fire and in 1760 was placed outside St. Dunstan's church, where she still reigns. The soot of ages has laid its somber folds over rich coloring, traces of which an antiquarian 100 years ago noted were "at one time" visible.

HOWARD GUILFORD IS RECOVERING

NO TRACE FOUND OF THE GUNMEN WHO SHOT HIM

Minneapolis, Sept. 27.—(UP) — Howard Guilford, editor of a weekly expose newspaper who was shot yesterday following the publication of articles exposing alleged vice conditions in Minneapolis, is recovering at a hospital here today.

Every available peace officer in Hennepin county has been detailed to the case, but no trace has been found of the gunmen who drove alongside the automobile in which Guilford and his sister-in-law rode and fired four shots into the machine one of which struck the editor.

Guilford had predicted several days before the first issue of his latest paper, "The Saturday Press," was published, that he was certain gun play would follow his exposures.

Editorially the Press said:

"Word has been passed that if we persist in our expose of conditions as they are in this city, we would be 'bumped off.' Just a moment, boys, before you start something you won't be able to finish. The open season on editorial writers ended with the assassination of Editor Don R. Mellett, of Canton, Ohio, by imported gunmen."

The Chewing LAXATIVE

Chew It Like Chewing Gum

A pleasure to use. Very efficient. Children love it. No taste but that of sweet mint. The most popular laxative because it's a "satisfier." 15c and 25c.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

Irish Hearts

By MOLLIE MALONE

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"IRISH HEARTS," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Emmett Murtough, a roistering young man of Killanmaul, a village on the west coast of Ireland, hears the call of America. He is in love with Sheila Kildare, daughter of Old Tom Kildare, who had let his farm go to ruin while he talked politics to the villagers. The fair at Knockbotherum, a few miles away, has begun and an old fortune teller is one of the chief attractions to the country folk.

"Th' ould witch do still be bringin' luck to th' childer," they would whisper as they made their way on, and the sentimental wife and mother would clutch the arm of her lord and master a bit more firmly as the vision of his fine youthful figure would loom for the moment out of memory's past.

"'Tis a wife ye need for good ballast, Emmett Murtough," the old fortune teller said, the while she shuffled the cards upon the table in front of her. She gazed frankly into the blue eyes, squinting now in a frown and he listened. "Ye've a gift for gab and a gift for the makin' o' frinds of strangers, but 'tis a wife ye need lad, a good girl an' none o' these teasin' baggages with flighty beads."

"An' ye think I would do well away?" he asked.

"Ye might an' yet again ye mightn't. But there's a voyage in the cards for ye an' it'll be soon. But ye'll have to stand on yer own, me lad. 'Tis little the fairies did give ye. It may be ye were born on a dark night an' the fairies forgot ye."

"'Tis on me way to America I'll be before many days."

"I need no fairies," the Murtough cried impatiently. "I'll do with me good right arm an' the brains that are in me own head here!"

"An' so ye may, lad, an' so ye may, but 'tis a good wife that'll help ye, come the days when yer stubbornness is on ye."

A good wife, thought Emmett as he strolled toward the racing course where soon the speediest horses of the countryside would contest. That would be Sheila. But there must be no marriage now; later on after he had made good in America, then would he send for her, if he needed her at all. Were there not women in America; hadn't he seen the pictures of them in the illustrated magazines printed in London and which occasional travelers had left at Mrs. O'Farrell's Inn? Beautiful they were in their fine clothes. Who could tell, perhaps, there was one of them just waiting for his coming over there in America where every man had an even chance to become rich and powerful.

Emmett attended every day of the week of the fair. Few shillings he had in his pocket for entertainment, but the bustle and hustle matched his restlessness. Here was life, he thought, and if this were life what would it be over where all his dreams were centered.

The day at the Knockbotherum Fair was the one holiday in the year for Sheila Kildare. There were a thousand things to see; the prize cattle and pigs, and the wonderful display of homespun clothes and of needlework submitted for prizes by the wives of the countryside. Sheila gave herself over to the excitement completely. Nothing was too trivial to see and to exclaim over. Old Tom Kildare was more interested in the stock exhibit than anything else. He prided himself that he knew good horseflesh and as for jumpers, well, hadn't he ridden cross country races for the Squire when he was young. And many were the fine fields he beat, too, he would boast. Left to herself Sheila visited the booths alone; sometimes joining in with a group of gay girls from Killanmaul way and four abreast, arm in arm, they would skip along the main thoroughfare of the fair grounds returning smile for smile with the young blades who passed.

Milk and egg pennies had been saved and treasured in the blue pot on the shelf above the fireplace at the Kildare cottage for months before fair time. This treasure was now Sheila's to spend for what she willed; for bright ribbons and a piece of silk or a pair of stockings and, yes, even a pair of bright garters, which she tucked away in her bag that no one might ever see! Sheila had shopped alone and she was idling away before the booths waiting for Old Tom when she came to Mother O'Reilly's tent.

"Tell y'er fortune, pretty miss," the old woman pleaded. "Only a shilling, an' 'tis a fair fortune ye have, as I can see with my own eyes," she tempted. Sheila hesitated. A hand touched her shoulder.

"Go on, Sheila. She told mine an' she says it's a voyage I'm to take and soon. 'Tis on me way to America I'll be before many days," Emmett Murtough boasted.

"America? Oh, Emmett, not right away," she cried.

"The old hag says 'tis to be soon, didn't you, Mother," Emmett asked of the fortune teller. The old woman nodded.

"But I said 'tis a good wife ye'll be needin'," the old woman added, "an' ye'll never do better than her I'm thinkin', if ye can win her, lad."

Sheila blushed.

"'Tis my one an' only sweetheart she is," said Emmett.

"Go on, ye gabbler you," Sheila laughed as she gave him a playful push. "I'll have me fortune told an' I'm sure there's a handsomer man than you awaitin' fer me," she cried as she sat down opposite Mother O'Reilly.

"'Tis a merry heart ye have," began the fortune teller as she laid out the cards, "an' a brave one. The fairies were good to ye an' they gave ye the gifts for happiness in yer life."

"Go way, Emmett Murtough," Sheila cried as he lingered near. "I'll have no one hearin' me fortune but meself. Go an' find Dad, for 'tis goin' home we must be with half the night to drive the way. Will ye ride home with us, Emmett?"

"No, 'tis stayin' in Knockbotherum I am tonight," he said as he turned. "I suppose I'll find the old man down near the stock pens?"

"Or maybe he's after havin' a glass," put in Sheila. "I haven't seen him for the hours now."

"Ah, me dear, an' 'tis a fine life we'll be havin'. There'll be ups an' downs an' the worries an' all, just as there is for everybody. But the fairies have been good to ye an' there's happiness waitin' at the end. Do ye just be brave an' ye'll win against all the troubles that'll come to ye. Ye have the singing heart, acushla, an' them with the singing heart is never afraid of divil or baste."

"An' will I have true love," Sheila asked.

"Sure, an' that's always a girl's question! Ye will, ye will; but don't pick too easy an' don't take the word of every easy speaking divil ye meet, dear. There's many an' many that'll want to kiss ye'r pretty lips an' look into ye'r eyes for the love light there, but be warned an' don't take the first that pops the question to ye."

"But if my heart is already given?"

"Ah, an' what girl of ye'r age, a bare eighteen I take it, knows her own heart! Be off with ye! Ye've plenty an' plenty of time to change ye'r mind, acushla darling."

Elizabeth's Statue

A statue of Queen Elizabeth in side paniers and farthingale is now said to be the oldest public statue in London. It bears the date 1586. Originally set up on Ludgate hill, the stone queen survived the great fire and in 1760 was placed outside St. Dunstan's church, where she still reigns. The soot of ages has laid its somber folds over rich coloring, traces of which an antiquarian 100 years ago noted were "at one time" visible.

HOWARD GUILFORD IS RECOVERING

NO TRACE FOUND OF THE GUNMEN WHO SHOT HIM

Minneapolis, Sept. 27.—(UP) — Howard Guilford, editor of a weekly expose newspaper who was shot yesterday following the publication of articles exposing alleged vice conditions in Minneapolis, is recovering at a hospital here today.

Every available peace officer in Hennepin county has been detailed to the case, but no trace has been found of the gunmen who drove alongside the automobile in which Guilford and his sister-in-law rode and fired four shots into the machine one of which struck the editor.

Guilford had predicted several days before the first issue of his latest paper, "The Saturday Press," was published, that he was certain gun play would follow his exposures.

Editorially the Press said:

"Word has been passed that if we persist in our expose of conditions as they are in this city, we would be 'bumped off.' Just a moment, boys, before you start something you won't be able to finish. The open season on editorial writers ended with the assassination of Editor Don R. Mellett, of Canton, Ohio, by imported gunmen."

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronically constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.
